Two Officials Lose Car To Desperadoes

KANKAKEE, Ill., June 27 — (UP) — Deputy Sheriff Walter Bauer reported today that state police and deputy sheriffs shot and killed one of two desperadoes sought for the shooting of an Indiana policeman and two abductions. Bauer said the second bandit was wounded. The gunmen were ambushed at Deselm, Ill.

The reported slaying occurred approximately two hours after the bandits had kidnapped James Novy, a farmer, and his four-year-old son.

Bauer said the desperadoes were cornered in a corn field and shot at state police and deputies closed in on them from all sides.

He said an ambulance was en route to the corn field to take the wounded bandit to a hospital.

The report said the gunmen abandoned a 1934 Studebaker they commandeered from Deputies Charles Hahn, 52, and Joe Kowalczyk, 50, and took over a black 1934 Chevrolet sedan operated by

REFUGEE TRAIN DELAYED BY AIR ATTACK OF JAPS

SHANGHAI, June 27.—(UP)—Departure of an international refugee train on which a number of Americans were scheduled to leave Hankow tomorrow may be delayed because of intense Japanese air bombardments of the Canton-Hankow railway line today.

Japanese bombers destroyed the railway bridge at Shekling, between Canton and Hong Kong, and damaged the line at other points. They also bombed the southern part of Hainan island and raided half a dozen South China airports.

Chinese reports said the Japanese made an unsuccessful attempt to land troops from warships at Tungliu, 25 miles above Anking. Tungliu is the last Chinese stronghold on the South bank of the Yangtze river between Anking and the Matang boom, which blocks the river.

Farmer's Query About Price Proves Problem

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(UP)—A Nebraska farmer asked a question last April that nearly stumped congress, the Department of Agriculture and farm belt newspaper editors.

He got an answer from Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today—four closely typewritten pages replete with statistics—but may have to forego harvesting to figure it out.

The question, which he originally asked the editor of the Omaha World-Herald was:

"Mister, can you tell me why May Wheat No. 2 hard, is quoted on the Chicago market at 84 1/2 cents, while No. 1 Northern Spring at Winnipeg is $1.25?"

The editor couldn't. He offered to advertise for an answer. The farmer suggested that while he was about it the editor might also answer why foreign buyers took more Canadian than American wheat despite the 41 cents a bushel price difference.

Droughts Possible

The editor did some research. He found that in four of the last six years the Chicago quotations were higher than Winnipeg. The editor of the Lincoln (Nebr.) Star came to his aid with the suggestion that

STORM SWEEPS T. M. GARNER, 76, ADELPHI AREA ASHVILLE, DIES

Barn On William Strous Property Damaged By Gale Sunday

Prominent Teacher, Justice Of Peace Native Of Allen County

Severe wind accompanying a rainstorm at 3 p. m. Sunday caused heavy damage at the farm of William Strous who resides on the Pickaway-Ross county line road about a half mile West of Adelphi.

The wind tore off eight strips of metal roofing from each side of the roof on one end of the barn and blew off several doors. Parts of the roof were carried a quarter of a mile away. Hay in the barn was soaked by the rain. The steel tower of a windmill on the farm was twisted.

The Citizens Telephone Co. reported four poles were blown down on the Laurelville exchange. No other serious damage was caused in Pickaway county.

Rainfall of .61 of an inch fell in Circleville during the rainstorm Sunday, Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather recorder, reported. The highest temperature Sunday was 80 degrees. During the night the mercury dropped to 65.

The Scioto river had climbed one foot at 8 a. m. Monday but was still below normal. It measured three feet eight inches. Normal stage for the stream at the W. Main street bridge is four feet.

The rain was needed in this district to aid corn, farmers said.

THREE MEN SAFE AFTER FIGHTING STORM IN BAY

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(UP)—Three men were recovering today from a night-long battle with a storm on Chesapeake bay — a battle which two of them fought with no other help than a cushion life preserver. The third rode out the storm in an oarless rowboat.

The three were Richard and Leonard Sebastian and Joseph Ambrogli. They were fishing from a rowboat when the storm blew up and they lost their oars. Ambrogli dived in to save the oars and couldn't regain the boat. Richard jumped in to help him and then neither could get back to the tossing craft.

Leonard threw them a cushion life preserver and his boat was soon blown out of sight.

Ten hours later a power boat picked up Leonard from the rowboat and a search was started for Richard and Ambrogli. They were found semi-conscious but safe, floating on the life preserver.

CITY MAY SEEK FEDERAL MONEY FOR NEW LIGHTS

President Of Council Says Possibility To Be Talked Tuesday Evening

OTHER QUESTIONS PEND

Addition To City Hall Given Consideration

Circleville councilmen may ask the Public Works Administration for funds to erect a boulevard lighting system in Circleville.

John C. Goeller, president of council, said the notice of a special session of council for Tuesday at 8 p. m. would list the question for preliminary discussion.

The councilman believes a boulevard lighting system with steel or concrete poles would cost from $10,000 to $12,000 and there is a possibility of obtaining federal aid.

Circleville voters in a special election last April turned down a 10-year contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. including a boulevard lighting system for the downtown district using wooden poles.

Other matters to be discussed Tuesday night include an addition to the city building for a jail, garage and health offices, and a possible addition to the hospital; a contract with the electric company to furnish power for the disposal plant, and an easement with the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad to place pipes under the track to reach the disposal plant.

Mowery was driving the car. He said the group had attended a show in Lancaster and was returning home. Mowery said lights of a passing car blinded him and the car started skidding. It turned on its side in the ditch. The motor caught fire, but the flames did not reach the inside of the car.

Paxson, 31, Escapes Again

For the third time in 12 days, Harold "Happy" Paxson, 31, escaped Sunday from the Logan county jail at Bellefontaine.

Paxson picked the locks on a pair of handcuffs that held his wrists together and on another pair that held one wrist to a chain inside his cell. He crawled through a ventilator, out an attic skylight and slid to the ground on a lightning rod. He used the skylight and lightning rod for escapes on June 14 and June 22.

Paxson was lodged in the jail

first as a parole violator last May 20. After his escape on June 14 he was captured in Circleville on June 21 and returned to Bellefontaine. He escaped on June 22. Paxson was recaptured at Lima on June 24 and placed in solitary confinement that day.

Sheriff Charles Bewley said Paxson was in his cell at 1 a. m. Sunday. His escape was discovered at 8:30 a. m. when jailers went to his cell with breakfast.

Paxson was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary for attacking a deputy sheriff at Sidney.

Logan county commissioners had examined the jail on Saturday afternoon and announced they would repair the ventilator opening at once.

Paxson was caught twice in Circleville. After being captured by police he jumped from the police cruiser as he was being taken to the city jail and ran. He lost a foot race with deputy sheriffs when he ran between the courthouse and county jail.

AMBUSH TRAPS MEN WHO SHOT INDIANA OFFICER

Second Outlaw Wounded, Deputy Sheriff Says, During Fight

James Novy, a farmer. With Novy was the boy.

Two Held Captives

They swapped cars near Wilmington, 12 miles South of here, and held the farmer and the boy captives.

Hahn and Kowalczyk were released unharmed early today two miles west of Cook, Ind., near the Northern Illinois-Indiana border. The two were overpowered and abducted last night six miles North of LaPorte, Ind., when, by chance, they came on the scene where the gunmen had wounded State Policeman Ray Dixon, 28.

"Shoot to kill" orders had been issued by Illinois and Indiana state police who shifted their barricade of all roads on a line extending North and South, Northwest of Kankakee when it was determined that the gunmen had changed routes. At first, it was believed the pair was speeding toward Chicago.

Police said they believed the bandits might attempt to hide in some outlying farmhouse during the day to escape being trapped in the widespread manhunt.

They reported that the gunmen, in kidnapping Novy and the boy, had dropped a .38 calibre pistol.

Active in Wisconsin

The bandits were believed to be the same pair who fled from Stevens Point, Wis., Thursday after holding up a woman.

Three gunmen have been sought since June 17 for a series of hold-ups, shootings and an abduction in Wisconsin. Two of these have been linked to the Indiana shooting and kidnapping by an automobile they left behind.

The machine in which Dixon found the pair bore Michigan license plates which had been stolen Thursday at Columbus, Wis., reportedly after the holdup at Stevens Point. After shooting Dixon, the two took over the machine in which the two deputies had motored to the scene.

"They were pretty tough," Hahn said. "They took $15 from me and $6 from Kowalczyk but otherwise they treated us all right. I was driving with Kowalczyk along side of me, while they sat in the back seat."

"From their conversation I gathered that they were fleeing from some crime they had committed in Michigan yesterday. They talked about going to Chicago via Kankakee and Joliet, Ill., but that may have been said for our benefit."

He said the gunmen had three suitcases with them.

Dixon had stopped to assist them, believing their automobile had stalled. He was in uniform. As he approached their car the driver opened fire. Dixon was shot three times in the abdomen and once in the hand. He is expected to die.

The scene of the shooting was on Fall road, branching off U. S. Highway 20, in northern Indiana where Desperadoes John Dillinger and Al Brady made some of their most spectacular raids.

Probing Wreck

Dixon, accompanied by R. J. Hennings, photographer for a South Bend, Ind., newspaper, left the Chesterton, Ind., barracks early last night to investigate an accident at the intersection of the two roads where two automobiles, one driven by Walter Sanders, 22, Michigan City, Ind., the other driven by John E. Boergert, 23, Kenilworth, Ill., had collided.

Boergert and his companion, Miss Laura Schmidt, 20, Detroit, were injured slightly. Dixon arrested Sanders as the driver responsible for the accident, put him in the police car and with Hennings started for the LaPorte jail.

They had proceeded only half a mile South of Fall road, when Dixon sighted the gunmen's car. He stopped and got out.

"What's the trouble?" he asked.

"We can't get it started," one man answered.

"Maybe I can help," Dixon said. As he approached the car, the driver, a red-haired man, jumped out, leveled an automatic and fired. Dixon slumped to the ground.

Hennings jumped from the police car and fled. The gunmen fired two or three shots at him but missed. Sanders cowered in the back seat of the police car. The desperadoes told him to get out and run after he had pleaded that he was a prisoner himself. He jumped over a wall and watched.

When the gunmen had fled from the scene of the shooting, Sanders returned and brought Dixon to Holy Family hospital here. Dr. James J. Kiltner said the officer had "practically no chance to recover," he said Dixon was too weak even for a blood transfusion. Fifteen of Dixon's fellow officers had offered their blood.

Caesarean operations were performed 2,000 years before Julius Caesar was born.

SUPREME COURT RECEIVES PLEA OF ANNA HAHN

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(UP)—Attorneys for Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn today asked the U. S. Supreme court to review validity of her conviction and death sentence on charge of a Cincinnati poison-murder.

Mrs. Hahn was convicted of killing Jacob Wagner by poison and sentenced to be electrocuted.

Her attorneys contended that introduction of certain evidence during her trial was in violation of the due-process clause of the Constitution.

Mrs. Hahn, German-born matron, originally was scheduled to die last Spring but the execution was stayed to permit her attorneys to appeal the sentence which was affirmed by the Ohio Supreme Court.

During her trial, the state contended that Wagner was one of several men killed by Mrs. Hahn. The state contended that Mrs. Hahn took over all possessions of the murdered men.

Mrs. Hahn's attorneys, in the appeal petition contended the trial judge illegally permitted introduction as evidence of "various parts of the bodies" of George Obendorfer, Albert J. Palmer and George Gsellman, all of whom the state contended were other victims of Mrs. Hahn.

droughts in the United States and Canada were responsible.

The farmer declared that the Star's explanation was "nonsense." Droughts have occurred all over the world and still "United States wheat is the cheapest in the world," he said.

He suggested that Secretary Wallace has "a pretty powerful hand on the Chicago Board of Trade" but that he didn't want to even suggest "there is an effort to frighten us farmers into cooperating with the control program."

The whole thing began to get on the nerves of the Herald-Herald editor. He said that he couldn't bring himself to suspect that "Wallace is deliberately a bear in the wheat market."

Finally, he passed the question on to Sen. Edward R. Burke, D. Neb., who asked several of his colleagues, but they didn't know. "The heck with it," Burke finally decided "let Wallace answer it."

After his long explanation, Wallace summarized his answer this way: "The reason that the price of good milling wheat in Canada this year is higher than usual relative to other wheat is because there is a shortage of good milling wheat in that country."

Wallace didn't know why Canada sold more wheat abroad, but insisted that American wheat brought just as much on the world market as anybody else's.

PRESIDENT PUTS NAME ON ACT TO FIX WAGE-HOURS

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(UP)—President Roosevelt, it was disclosed today, has signed the wage-hour bill thereby effectuating a major objective in the New Deal's program of economic reform.

Mr. Roosevelt signed the bill before departing for Wilmington, Del., for ceremonies commemorating landing of first Swedish and Finnish colonists in America. He also signed 131 other bills.

The wage-hour bill, enacted after bitter and protracted congressional controversy, required presidential action by today.

Presidential approval of the bill launches the administration on one of the most far-reaching projects of its history—a project designed to place a floor under wages and a ceiling on hours for American workers employed in interstate industries.

TWO MORE SHIPS HIT IN ATTACKS BY REBEL PLANES

VALENCIA, Spain, June 27.—(UP)—Two more British merchant ships were bombed and wrecked off the Mediterranean coast of Spain today by insurgent airplanes.

The incident came at a time when the British government, harassed by parliamentary demands for drastic action, was in earnest consultation with Paris, Rome and Berlin on means of stopping the bombings.

It was the 23rd attack on British ships since May 1, involving the loss of 15 British lives.

The steamer Arlon was bombed by five insurgent planes in the port here. It was set afire and was in a sinking condition wrapped in flames.

Six bombers attacked the British steamer Farnham on a raid at Alicante, South of Valencia. The Farnham likewise was set afire and probably sunk. Three British sailors and two stevedores, one Spanish and the other Roumanian, were killed in the bombing of the Farnham.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 27.—(UP)—Greta Garbo and Leopold Stokowski narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday when their automobile skidded and turned over near Soedertaele, 30 miles South of here. Stokowski was driving.

After climbing from the overturned car and putting it back on its wheels, they continued their journey.

SIX RISK LIVES ON RAPIDS OF COLORADO RIVER

GRAND CANYON, Ariz., June 27.—(UP)—The two women and four men who are daring the turbulent Colorado river rapids through the Grand canyon were believed today to be drifting toward Cataract canyon, beyond which there is no escape until they reach Lees Ferry. There is no complete record of those who have lost their lives on similar ventures.

The six, riding in two sturdy flat-bottomed boats are Miss Elzada Clover, 40, University of Michigan botanist; her assistant, Miss Lois Jotter, 25; Eugene Atkinson, University of Michigan zoologist; Norman D. Nevills, veteran Utah riverman; W. C. Gibson, San Francisco artist-photographer and Don Harris, U. S. geological survey scientist.

The party started from Green River, Utah, a week ago and presumably passed the confluence of the Green and Colorado rivers yesterday. They must pass more than 300 rapids before they reach the placid waters of Lake Mead, behind Boulder Dam.

Federal, state and local revenues from sale of distilled liquors in the United States last year totaled more than a billion dollars.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

BY BOB BURNS

Men are usually crude, blunt and matter-of-fact and it's all right as long as they're dealing with other men. But I honestly think they should take a course in art and culture, just so they'll be able to understand the finer and more sensitive qualities of the women folks.

I know a newly married man who sat down to his wife's first breakfast and when she called his attention to how pretty the table was, fixed with flowers she had gone out to gather herself, he said, "Yes, the table looks mighty pretty, but where's the coffee?" She says, "Oh, you're so unappreciative—I can't think of everything."

W. P. A. PLEDGES FARMERS HELP DURING HARVEST

Chillicothe N. R. S. Office To Serve Pickaway, Other Areas

CONDITIONS ARE CITED

Worker's Refusal To Take Job Brings Dismissal

District W. P. A. officials today offered employed W. P. A. workers to farmers for labor work on specific demand, and also announced the establishment of a routine for making certified but unemployed W. P. A. eligibles available for farm labor work.

The policy became effective in 20 Central Ohio counties of W. P. A. District Six through a letter of instructions issued by Director J. L. Kelly to Montgomery Campbell, employment supervisor. Simultaneously, the National Re-employment Service announced its intention to establishing temporary offices where farmers are instructed to make their first contact to get W. P. A. labor help through traveling assignment offices of the N. R. S. organization.

Conditions Disclosed

Specific conditions under the farm labor policy were outlined by W. P. A. officials as follows: Refusal of a W. P. A. worker to accept a farmer's offer at prevailing farm labor rates in the county will be cause for dismissal from W. P. A.

Acceptance of the offer and satisfactory service in the job commits the W. P. A. to rehire the worker immediately on termination of his private employment. The worker is held responsible for notifying W. P. A. of the termination. The employer is warned to expect a W. P. A. query after the termination on the nature of the worker's services.

Unsatisfactory service in the private farm job, resulting in discharge of the worker by the farmer, cancels the obligation of W. P. A. to rehire the worker.

In the latter case, the worker is given the right of appeal through the labor relations section of the W. P. A. employment division, for ascertainment of facts and determination of the justice of the dismissal.

Farmers seeking labor help from W. P. A. workers were advised by W. P. A. officials to contact the office of National Re-employment or Ohio State Employment services in local areas.

National Re-employment service offices serving W. P. A.'s District Six are located in:

Fremont for Wyandot county, Springfield for Clark, Champaign, Madison, Greene, and Union counties.

Chillicothe for Fayette, Ross and Pickaway counties.

Newark for Licking, Fairfield, Knox, and Delaware counties.

Mansfield for Richland, Crawford, and Morrow counties.

Sidney for Hardin and Logan counties.

Extra temporary offices of the National Re-employment Service established in areas where the applicants are certified for W. P. A. work. An assignment representative will be present at these relief offices on certain days which will be announced by relief directors, and the relief directors will handle requests for reference to assignment officer on other days.

Book Truck to Visit; Other Ashville News

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Ashville, Phone 79

The county library truck, with its hundreds of books, will be here under the big elm tree at the Long street school house, Tuesday. You know the rest. . . . The old bleachers at The Park are being torn down and replaced with new parts, so that their safety cannot be questioned now. The old well with its pump handle and all, has been replaced with a fountain bubbler. The bandstand will undergo needed repairs and the rickety stand at the South of the bleachers will be removed and the finishing strokes are being given the toilets, so that by the latter part of this week everything will be in good shape for company. . . .

Certificate Received

There was nothing phony about it, saw it with my own eyes. Prof. E. F. Martin our principal of schools, has just received from the Department of Education of Ohio, a perfectly nicely printed and signed up by about a dozen up there, an Eight-year Principal's certificate to teach anywhere in Ohio. Yes, we remember quite well when "some of the boys" got their "six monther" and sure they were proud of it? Elsie Warner, S. L. Grigsby, Al Roose, M. L. Smith were among some of the School Examiners, then.

THRILLS FROM "THE GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH" FEATURING ANTOINETTE CONCELLO TRAPEZE SENSATION AND TERRELL JACOBS LION KING

"THANKS FOR THE CAMEL. NOW, MISS CONCELLO, HOW ARE CHANCES FOR A STORY ON YOUR BIGGEST THRILL AS A STUNT AERIALIST?"

"OH, NO, LADIES FIRST, TONY, TELL HIM ABOUT YOUR FIRST TRIPLE SOMERSAULT IN THE AIR"

"OH, ASK TERRELL ABOUT HIS LIONS!"

"WELL, YOU SEE, NO WOMAN, TO MY KNOWLEDGE, HAD EVER EXECUTED A TRIPLE, MID-AIR SOMERSAULT. I'LL NEVER FORGET THE FIRST TIME I TRIED IT UNDER THE BIG TOP..."

"...BUT AS I WHIRLED OFF INTO SPACE... ONCE... TWICE... FOR A SPLIT-SECOND I PRACTICALLY LOST CONSCIOUSNESS..."

"...BECAUSE THIS STUNT REQUIRES GREATLY INCREASED SPEED, I HAD TO DEPEND ALMOST ENTIRELY ON AUTOMATIC TIMING..."

"...THREE TIMES... AND... I MADE IT! MY TIMING WAS PERFECT, AND ANOTHER "FIRST" PERFORMANCE "LEFT ME THRILLED AND SAFE!"

"...BY FAST THINKING AND MOVING, I GOT THE UPPER HAND... BEFORE I LEFT THE CAGE, EVERY LION WAS BACK IN PLACE."

"WELL, THAT'S NOTHING TO TERRELL'S BIG MOMENTS. TELL HIM ABOUT THE TIME SPARKY OVER THERE, ALMOST FINISHED YOU"

"PHEW! I'LL STICK TO MY REPORTING"

"I HAD ALMOST COMPLETED MY ACT WITH 25 LIONS, WHEN SPARKY AND ANOTHER MALE WENT FOR EACH OTHER..."

"YOU BET, TERRELL, THERE'S A BIG DIFFERENCE BETWEEN CAMELS AND OTHER KINDS—IN MILDNESS, IN TASTE, IN THE FEELING OF CONTENTMENT THEY GIVE—IN SO MANY WAYS!"

"CAMELS SURE SET ME RIGHT—FROM EVERY ANGLE. AFTER A TURN IN THE BIG CAGE, I NEED A LIFT IN ENERGY AND I GET IT FROM A CAMEL. I FIND CAMELS AID MY DIGESTION TOO. I'VE SMOKED CAMELS FOR 16 YEARS. HAVE ONE, TONY?"

"WELL, WE ARGUE ABOUT WHOSE JOB IS THE HARDEST, BUT WE SURE AGREE THAT WE CAN'T RISK SHAKY NERVES!"

"AND YOU CAN BET THAT'S A BIG REASON WHY WE BOTH SMOKE CAMELS. THEY NEVER BOTHER OUR NERVES!"

"WE KNOW TOBACCO BECAUSE WE GROW IT—WE SMOKE CAMELS BECAUSE WE KNOW TOBACCO"—TOBACCO PLANTERS SAY

You have to know tobacco to raise the fine grades planter Joe Brewer grows every crop. He says: "Last year my best lot went to Camel. I smoke Camels. Most planters I know do. They know the finer tobaccos that go into Camels."

Calvin Wiggins, experienced planter, specializing in raising quality tobaccos, says: "The best of my last crop was taken by Camel. They paid top prices. Most growers smoke Camels—we know they're made of costlier tobaccos."

"For a better cigarette, I always say smoke finer tobaccos," says Lee Mason, who grows the finer grades he speaks of—he's grown them for years. "I've seen the choicer tobaccos go to Camel many times. That's why I smoke Camels."

THE 28-HOUR DAY

HERE is something new under the sun, and also out of the sun. It is an experiment in psychology undertaken by University of Chicago students in Kentucky's Mammoth Cave. They are trying to find out whether men can live in a daily cycle of 28 hours instead of 24 hours.

Apparently they are not dividing the present length of our day into 28 shorter hour-periods, but adding four hours to the regular day. The experts want to learn how it affects efficiency, physical functions, and so on.

The doctors never thought of anything like that when they put the tubercular patients in Mammoth Cave half a century or more ago, thinking the chemically pure air—made so by the limestone—would cure them. The air was all right, but the lack of sunlight, whose value wasn't understood then, seems to have killed them. They had no such substitute as ultra-violet lamps and vitamin tablets.

The blind fish living in the Mammoth Cave River might give some useful testimony in the present experiment. By going without light, they have learned to go without sight. That seems a greater fact in adaptation than learning to live in a daily cycle a few hours longer or shorter than usual.

Men with irregular or unusual working and sleeping hours would probably tell the professors that a man can adapt himself to almost anything in the way of daily routine after a few weeks or months.

MUSICAL FISH

FISH not only hear sounds, but have musical discrimination and taste. At least, an angler writes to the New York Times that he has proved fish are attracted by classical music and repelled by swing.

Wishing to experiment, this fisherman took a portable phonograph and a variety of records along with his regular tackle to his favorite fishing spot.

When he played Bach and Beethoven records his success was amazing. He refrained from giving the exact figures, lest readers of the Times should think he was exaggerating. When he played a swing record, his angler's luck vanished.

"The water had been alive with fish, but as soon as I played the swing there was a swirling and then quiet. The fish had been shocked and agitated and had fled."

It may be that this Izaak Walton was spoofing the Times and its readers, but the fish story has a lot of appeal for anti-swing humans.

Senator Carter Glass says "Washington is no place for a sane man." He might put it stronger. The world is no place for a sane man.

World At A Glance

Republicanism is not getting into the 1938 congressional campaign on the basis of as close a partnership with anti-New Deal Democrats as seemed likely as recently as only a few weeks ago.

There was talk then of an out-and-out coalition.

Old Guard Republicans and the folk known as Bourbon Democrats did not, after all, formerly have so very much in common. Both groups were conservative but they were different kinds of conservatives. They still are. They are, indeed, agreed in opposing the New Deal. For a while it looked as if they might unite on that issue. When it comes to a showdown, however, they fail to display much cohesion.

THE LINEUP

The Bourbon Democrats do not want to become Republicans. They want to wrest control of the Democratic party from the New Dealers' hands, and to be recognized AS the Democratic party, leaving the New Dealers as no party in particular.

The Republicans do not want to lose their partisan integrity. They will be glad to welcome seceding Democrats into their fold, but they want them to come in as converts to Republicanism.

The fight, then, evidently will be:

1. Between Democrats and Democrats, in the nominating primaries.
2. Between Democrats and Republicans on election day.

REPUBLICANS SOLID?

The Republicans will be solid enough.

The Democrats will be split. Candidates wearing Democratic labels will win on election day. The Republicans cannot possibly gain a senate majority; not enough senate seats are at stake to give them one. Theoretically they can gain a representative majority, but such an overturn this year is, practically, unimaginable.

What the Republicans hope for is a chance in 1940.

TO STYME NEW DEAL?

If the G. O. P. materially improves its congressional position (though still in a minority) for the ensuing two years and if the anti-New Deal Democrats at least retain their present congressional strength, between them they will have the New Dealers stymied until the next campaign.

And a stymied, impotent administration cannot win any credit for itself while it remains that way.

Times certainly cannot improve under such circumstances.

The administration will have

GUTZON BORGLUM LOBBIER

WASHINGTON—Most amazing piece of lobbying of the entire congressional session was put across by turbulent Gutzon Borglum, famous sculptor of national figures on the sides of mountains.

Borglum came to Washington rather late in the session, and with hardly anyone realizing it, passed a new bill for his Mt. Rushmore, S. D. Memorial. Also he got $100,000 initial appropriation, with three times that much authorized for the future.

The figures which Borglum is carving into the face of Mt. Rushmore are Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. Past work was going so slowly, because of lack of funds, that it would have required eleven more years to finish it, on top of almost that much time already put in on the job.

Borglum also was having trouble with his committee, and succeeded in kicking most of it out and appointing a new one completely friendly to him.

The new group will include Senator Pittman, of Nevada; Isabella Greenway, ex-Congresswoman from Arizona; Senator Bulow of South Dakota; Senator Norris of Nebraska; Herman Oliphant, Counsel of the Treasury; Russell Arundel, collector of "doodles"; Kent Keller, Congressman from Illinois; Governor Hanna of North Dakota, and William Williamson, Rapid City, S. D., attorney.

One feature of the new bill which Borglum lobbied through Congress is provision for a room to be carved out of the mountain and which is to be filled with present day records (including copies of The Washington Merry-Go-Round), then sealed for posterity.

Borglum proposes that the room remain sealed for 20,000 years, but other members of the committee believe folks will get curious in only a couple of hundred years and open up the rooms despite Borglum's instructions.

NOTE — Wonder what the papers would have said if John L. Lewis had tried to pass a bill like this?

HERE'S THAT MAN AGAIN

Charley West, one-time glad-hander for the President on Capitol Hill, now has another job which he hopes to land. It is to replace William I. Myers as head of the Farm Credit Administration.

Myers is stepping out in September to return to Cornell, from which Henry Morgenthau persuaded him to come to Washington to organize the Farm Credit Administration.

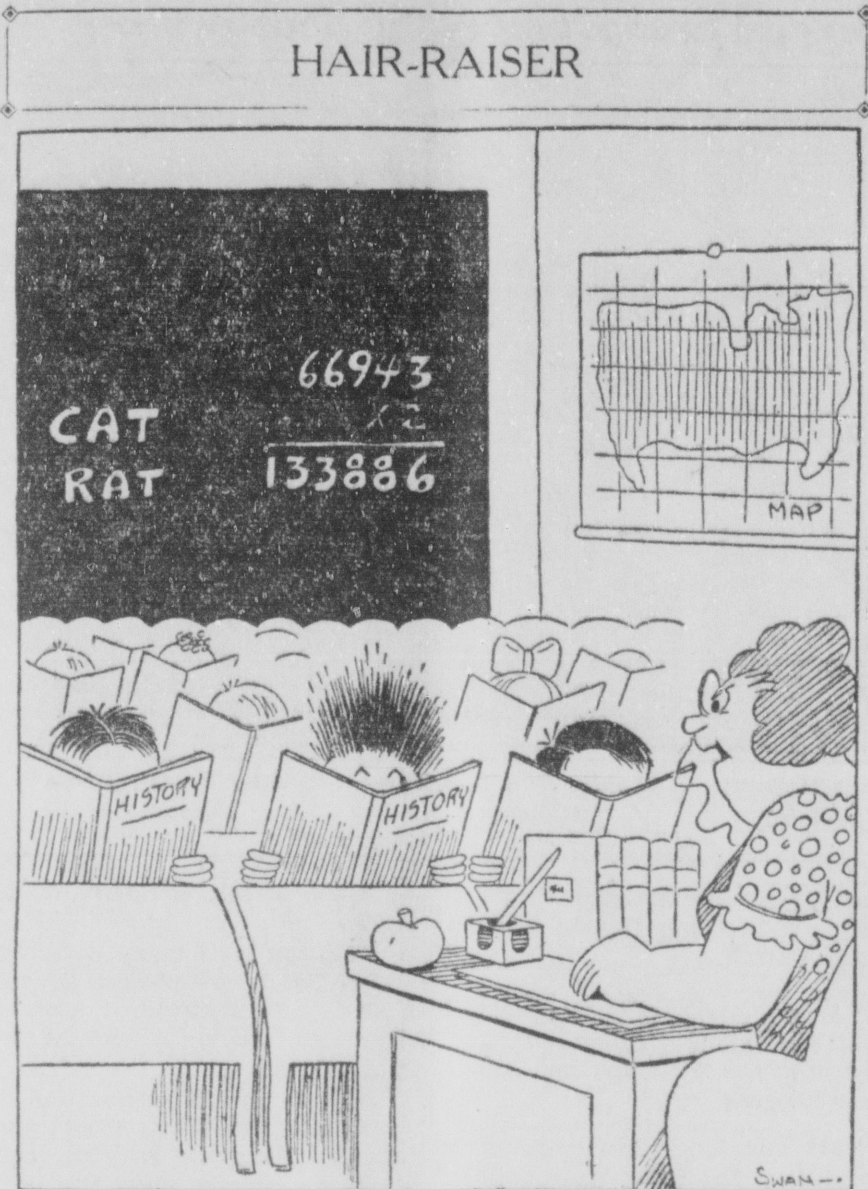

Myers has recommended as his successor the deputy governor, F. F. Hill, a non-politician. But various politicians, smelling a lush job, have been beating a track to the door of Jimmy Roosevelt. Among them is Charley West.

If Myers has his way, Hill will get the job.

Too bad that Sigmund Freud, the famous psychologist, is leaving Vienna, Hitler needs him.

Some folks are beginning to wish that news photos of pandas were as rare as the pandas themselves are supposed to be.

Children Are Treated for Rheumatic Heart Ill

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"THE CRIPPLES who do not limp" is the striking phrase used by Dr. Howard Haggard of Yale to describe children with rheumatic heart disease.

A concerted attack on this problem is being made in many parts of the country, but especially by an institution known as Irvington House in New York. Prevention of rheumatic fever is practically beyond our control because we do not know the cause or the nature of its spread, but after it has attacked a child and heart disease is present, a great deal can be done to prevent the late serious effects.

Good medical care may save lives and lengthen years and bring these children the joys that other children have. Salvage here is far more difficult than in actually crippling diseases. A child with a withered leg can see his own infirmity and seeing it, understand it. A child with a crippled heart cannot see his infirmity. He must be told about it and being told, believe it. He must suit his life to an intangible infirmity that imposes its limitations on many of physical activities.

Summer is an especially good time for recuperation of these children, and camps in various parts of the country are established for this purpose.

Irvington House at Irvington-on-the-Hudson is the only sanitarium in the United States for children with hearts crippled by rheumatic fever. Children are furnished with what is called their "mental crutches." Guided month after month by experienced and understanding teachers and nurses, the child learns to understand the strength of his sick heart and to follow its dictates, and in the comradeship of boys and girls similarly handicapped, he begins to lead a normal daily existence—normal.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

SHUN IT LIKE POISON

HOPES OF the declarer are sometimes very transparent. No clairvoyant ability is needed at all to tell that he would rather have you lead a certain suit to him than try leading it himself. If such is the case, your job is to avoid that suit as a rodent would duck "Rough-on-Rats". Lead anything else in preference.

I do not mean to imply that the G. O. P. looks optimistically toward two more years of hard times to bring it back into power. Nevertheless, if we DO have two more years of hard times, it wants to be able to say, after that, if it returns to power, and times DO improve, that the G. O. P. improved them—all by the G. O. P.'s own self, without any help from a lot of seceding Democrats.

Politicians look ahead that way. They may expect to die in the meantime, thus not benefiting by their reasoning, but actually they are honest.

USELESS COMMISSION

Changing the subject, here is an odd thing:

It is contended that the government's "independent offices" ought to be reorganized—and some of them abolished, as superfluous.

Well, included in the war department is the California Debris Commission. It dates back to the time of the San Francisco earthquake and fire, when, for a while, undoubtedly, there was some debris to be disposed of.

If that debris hasn't been attended to yet, when will it be? The

CHAPTER 43

IF ELLEN had been surprised when she awoke on Thursday morning, on Friday morning she was positively amazed.

She and Reynita stared from their upstairs window not at half a dozen Indian wigwams, but at what would have passed for a reservation encampment in 1875.

"There must be a hundred of them!" Ellen declared, incredulous.

Reynita could only stare. A dozen or more wigwams had appeared, but besides that there were other dozens of nondescript tents, also camps made simply in and under wagon beds, or with blankets and duffel spread on the open ground.

In another area were 26 khaki-colored army tents—Ellen counted them—with white people around them. She and Reynita had been busy inside their own home all during the late afternoon and evening, making last-minute plans and entertaining their house guests from Hollywood. They simply had not found time to note what had happened outside.

"Is much de la whoopee!" Bill greeted Ellen. "Is just Friday morning, senorita, and already 160 people have come!"

With customary efficiency, Bill had rented the army tents and some cots from Fort Huachuca, which lay 15 miles or so eastward. They would be needed to shelter some of the guests, he explained, although most of them would come prepared to camp. The cowboys had vacated their bunkhouse for guests, in the name of hospitality.

"What is that odor?" Ellen demanded. "It is something cooking. I must go out and see everything!"

"That's barbecue," Bill explained. "Uncle Buckshot is chef."

Buckshot Brown had caused a long open fire to be dug, and a big hardwood pit to be started in it at midnight. At dawn he had put wire net over the pit, and now above the glowing coals he was roasting four steers, six young rams, six lambs, six goats, and four half-grown pigs. From time to time guests themselves came up to add chunks of assorted beef, mutton, fowl, wild game.

At 10 o'clock about 40 Indians had looked elbows to form a circle in front of Ellen's house, and were chanting "EE-yah-yah-yah EE-yah-yah-yah" in a haunting rhythm. Tom-toms in the center of the ring beat an accompaniment as blood-chilling as it was in the year that Columbus sailed.

Feasting was high at noon, and all afternoon merrymaking increased. Most of it was impromptu, spontaneous, all the more delightful therefor. Ellen and the Hollywood folk were enthralled. Ellen said she felt more like a guest than a hostess. Men stared at her not rudely but in open admiration. And she hardly got a word with Bill Baron all day.

Mr. McIntyre of the United States border patrol drove up from Nogales at about sundown, but said he had to go on to Tucson for the night. He was elated at the big doings, said it was a fine crowd.

Sid Bromberg, Elwood Loring

and Mr. Conway, of the original party that had come from Holly-wood, returned from their hunting trip in Mexico at seven o'clock. They had killed one jaguar, and exhibited the pelt with pride. Sid had done the actual shooting, and told about it in detail at least 20 times.

Sid, moreover, was instantly excited about the fiesta. He had thought, like the others, that it would be a typical rustic dance. Instead it was—was Geneva James wryly remarked—"an epic, colossal and magnificent."

Sid wandered around gazing at the wigwams, the other camps, the barbecue pits, the Mexicans, the cowboys, the horses. He did a solo dance—after hilarious invitation—to the music of a cowboy string orchestra beside a campfire. Then confessed he was having the time of his life.

Ellen had hired a 12-piece Mexican orchestra from the famous Dons club in Phoenix, and it arrived ready to play at nine o'clock. By nine-thirty high jinks were roaring inside Ellen's beautiful ranch home. Dancing and hilarity was at a peak in her dining room, her living room, her two porches, her halls. Not more than a fifth of the guests could get in at once, but the others went on dancing, ad lib, outside.

"Goodness, Reynita, there must be 25 or 30 musicians out here even!" Ellen said to her friend, when they chanced to meet for a moment beside one merry group. "Look at that old man with the accordion!"

A wrinkled old-timer was playing and swaying with contagious pleasure. Guitar and banjo players would walk by and chime in; violinists—"diddlers"—would add their plaintive tones. One happy, rhythmic cowboy had borrowed a Hopi Indian tom-tom and converted it into an orchestra drum, doing amazingly well with it too.

That outburst came from Sidney Bromberg, when he chanced by Ellen and Reynita.

They were all looking. To people who dealt with "spectacles" and general grandeur for the screen, this shouldn't have been impressive, possibly. But this was the real thing! Genuine! Here was "theater" and showmanship as elemental as meat and bread, a part of the very souls of men and women. Here was illumination from stars and a thin moon and two dozen crackling campfires, and there to one side was a great ranch home glowing with light and hilarity, and all about were happy voices raised in conversation or song.

Ellen could hardly speak by 10 o'clock. A lump had tightened in her throat and stayed there. She wanted to cry, somehow, not in sorrow but in ecstasy. She moved all about the place, seeing this group and that, mingling with red folk and white, farm women, ranch girls, mountain men, prospectors, cattle herders, everybody. Mostly people she had never seen before, but for whom somehow she felt a fierce love. The hearty friendliness of them was overwhelming to her impressionable soul.

Her male guests from Hollywood demanded her presence inside at midnight. It was still crowded when she allowed Elwood Loring to escort her back in. All of a sudden she remembered that she had barely seen Bill Baron all day. Not once had he asked to dance with her. Only a time or two he had greeted her hurriedly in passing, once to say he had counted more than 600 guests on the scene. She began to long for a quiet word with him.

Beaming, booming Sid Bromberg at once saw her come in, and hastened to her side.

"Ellen, it is wonderful!" he shouted, above the music. "Never have I seen such a show! Listen—I want to produce a picture here. Geneva has the idea all doped out—see? A border romance. A handsome man on a horse like a dashing caballero—that'll be your friend Baron. He must do it! But listen, Ellen—I want to do it here! Here, you understand? I want this ranch, your ranch, to be the setting. All right? It's perfect! Just look out there! Just look in here! Just look!"

She had seen Sid Bromberg wrought up before.

She knew it wasn't just raving, either. That man's enthusiasms were worth millions. An idea like this meant instant fluctuation on Wall street. An enthusiasm such as this from Sidney Bromberg caused millionaire competitors to sit up nights.

He was a guest in her home. An old friend. A suitor. One cannot argue against such pressure.

"Surely, Sidney, if you want to," she smiled sweetly at him. "I myself think it's a grand show here. It would go big on the screen."

Felix Montoya came up to her then and begged for a dance. He was the most colorful man on the rancho that night, he and his golden-and-crimson Mexican costume. He was handsome, glowing.

Other men were asking for dances too, and Ellen had to make up her mind despite the confusion. But suddenly it was made up for her. She caught a glimpse of Bill dancing with Panola Montoya. An old hurt crept through her. She bit her lip and walked away with Felix.

Ten minutes later an area on the floor had been cleared, and Ellen and Felix were doing "El Jarabe Tapatio", prettiest, flashiest and perhaps oldest of all the Spanish dances. Reynita had taught her some of the steps, and with her natural aptitude at dancing she followed Felix in it now, even in that part when he put his huge sombrero on the floor and she had to dance around the brim of it.

"YEA!" yelled Sid Bromberg. "GREAT! GREAT! We put that in the picture too, Ellen. You will do that same dance!"

She kept her face smiling—she had 400 or more guests—but Ellen Dale felt somehow that her heart was sinking. After having tasted quietude and genuineness on a ranch for several weeks, was she to be coerced back to Hollywood? And to see Bill, this only man she had ever loved, lured from this natural happiness, into a life she knew to be fraught with sham?

She wanted to flee and be alone, but she kept on dancing.

Today's Fashion

NOTHING IS so dramatic, so sure of itself as black and white. That is one fashion axiom that can be put down in black and white. This color alliance is used here in a gown that is destined for success. It is of white organza with a long-sleeved, black velvet bolero. The dress has a huge, double bertha collar and short, slightly-puffed sleeves. A girle of black velvet swatches the waist. A bunch of lilacs is stuck through the girle.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

YEAR AFTER year the grape leafhopper plagues the commercial grape grower, as well as the home gardener who carefully tends a few pet grape vines. When attacked by this pest the grape leaves turn a light greenish-yellow, the vines lack vigor, and the entire plant takes on a run-down appearance.

The grape leafhopper, greatly enlarged, is illustrated in this Garden-Graph. These small, but very active insects, are usually found on the underside of the grape leaves. They are pale yellow in color with red spots.

This pest is difficult to control, since it feeds by sucking the sap from the foliage and not by eating the leaf itself. The best control method is to spray or dust with nicotine. If Bordeaux mixture is being used on the grape vines for dinner with a baked onion and tomato casserole and a green vegetable.

Hospitals Bidding For Right to Handle Maxie

By HENRY McEMORE

NEW YORK, June 27.—(UP)—Picture of a man reading the Sunday sports pages:

LONG BRANCH, N. J.—Max Baer signs to fight Joe Louis in September: fourteen hospitals already are bidding for the X-ray rights to Max Baer, who will train for the fight at a prominent hospital here so that he will feel right at home when he goes back to it after the bout. Promoter Mike Jacobs is going to advertise the fight for 15 rounds, which proves he has a swell sense of humor.

No one can figure out why Baer wants the fight unless it's because he is jealous of all the publicity Schmeling got for being knocked out so quickly, and figures he can better the German's time in hitting the floor. Well, maybe he can, but he is going to pretty nearly have to come in crawling. Max will be on his back so much his seconds will have to have a sky-writer flying overhead, writing his instructions in smoke.

BOSTON—War Admiral set to race Seabiscuit on Wednesday: this is getting to read like a headline out of Joe Miller's joke book. It was a good gag the first time it was pulled, but so was the one about the chicken crossing the road. The next news from Boston, I suppose, will be that War Admiral has come up with an ache in his pitching arm, or that Seabiscuit has asked to be excused because it's maid's afternoon off, or that Owner Sam Riddle doesn't think the Admiral should run because the sun is too bright, the breeze too soft, the birds singing too sweet, or something like that. One thing's a cinch, though—if they don't run this time they never will. Because one more year and both horses will be so old they'll be running under the colors of the Townsend plan.

WIMBLEDON, ENGLAND — Mrs. Helen Wills Moody rallies to defeat Mrs. Bobbie Heinie Miller of South Africa, 8-6, 6-4: in her good days Mrs. Moody could have beaten the likes of Mrs. Miller 6-0, 6-0, without using anything but her paint brush. And if you have ever seen any of Mrs. Moody's painting you know that she wasn't very skillful with that implement. I hope Mrs. Moody wins the title, because she is just about my age and it gives me the creeps to constantly read where athletes of that age are too old to run, to have any strength or be any good. If athletes, who keep in shape, fall apart at that age, what sort of condition must I be in?

RUMSON, N. J.—Ch. Blene V. Elbebogen Se Sumbula, a Boxer, among best of breed winners at Monmouth County Club show: Here Ch. Blene V. Elbebogen Se Sumbula! Here Ch. Blene V. Elbebogen Se Sumbula! where's that dog gone to? Thank goodness, when I was a dog fancier in Georgia, every dog I had was a mutt with such original names as Rex, Rover, Spot, Ben, Jack and Major. If I had had a dog named Ch. Blene Elbebogen Se Sumbula, the mutts would have gotten his name out of my mouth to call him. And when I say scraps of food, I mean scraps, because, that's what we fed 'em.

OILS TO BATTLE LEAGUE LEADERS

Eshelman Feeds Meet Fast Opponents In Monday Evening Feature

The lead in the softball league is at stake Monday evening when the Circleville Oils, losers in only one game, tangle with the Eshelman Feeds, undefeated in loop competition. The game is scheduled at 6:30 o'clock. Unless much more rain falls the game will be played although the field is somewhat soggy in places.

Ropeter is expected to toss the agate for the Oils while Lloyd Leasure will be on the hill for the league leaders. Leasure's single, steal of second and sprint home last week against the Purina Feeds kept his team in first place since his run was the only one scored in the game.

The league race is tightening up with Fenton Cleaners and Circleville Oils close behind the Eshelman outfit. Blue Ribbon Dairy has lost two contests while Cain's Market of South Bloomfield has dropped three. The Bronzeville Jollies are in seventh place with one victory in five starts and the Glitt food market lads are in the cellar with no victories in four tries.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 27 —(UP)—After winning series from the pace-setting New York Giants, the improved Brooklyn Dodgers and the pesky Boston Bees, the Cincinnati Reds today were unable to gain better than an even break in their four game series with the cellar-dwelling Philadelphia Phillies.

The Reds dropped the opener of a twin bill here yesterday by a 10 to 3 count and then came back to grab the nightcap 8 to 5. The even break cost Cincinnati ground in the pennant race and it now trails the Giants by two full games.

"Jumbo Jim" Weaver started in the box for the Reds in the first game, but failed to puzzle the Phillie batters. They nicked him for seven hits and five runs in 2-3 innings.

After Weaver was driven from the box Gene Schott came in. The young righthander wasn't much help however as he gave up six hits and five more counters.

Claude Passeau was nicked for 14 hits by the Reds, but managed to scatter them. Cincinnati made single runs in the second, third and ninth rounds.

In the second game Paul Derringer went the route to hang up his 10th victory of the season.

New Song and Dance Act for Louis

ONE of the rare occasions on which Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, smiled, was when he and his wife visited Bill Robinson, tap dancer extraordinary, at the latter's home in Chicago.

Reds To Return Friday After Long Road Trip

CINCINNATI, June 27—Having rushed through the Eastern half of the National League with the velocity of a whirlwind, the spectacular Cincinnati Reds return Friday to Crosley field for a night game with the always dangerous Chicago Cubs. The Reds and Cubs will also lock bats in a single game Sunday. The slugging Pittsburgh Pirates will be the holiday guests of the Reds in a doubleheader July 4.

LYNWOOD ROWE EDGES DEAN IN MINOR BATTLE

BEAUMONT, Tex., June 27—(UP)—In a world series baseball game in 1934 between the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Cardinals a couple of young pitchers named Lynwood Rowe and Paul Dean hooked up in a great pitcher's battle that was decided when Dean smacked out a hit that brought in the winning run.

Fans said there was a pair of pitchers who would have great careers in the majors. Yesterday Rowe and Dean met again, but it was in the minors where both are trying to recover the old zip and zip that made them two of the best for a few short years.

Rowe, pitching for Beaumont where he was sent by Detroit, got the decision yesterday, although he gave Dallas twice as many hits as Dean, who limited Beaumont to four. In the sixth Rowe slapped out a hit that won the game.

"You always could hit 'em, School Boy," yelled a fan.

Most of the fans, however, were thinking of the days when both School Boy and Daffy could burn 'em in there.

APOSTLES NEAR TOP POSITION IN LOOP CHASE

BY UNITED PRESS

St. Paul was less than a game out of first place in the American Association today after winning a game from Kansas City yesterday while the first place Indianapolis team was rained out against Toledo.

The Saints shoved the Blues further into third place by trimming them 14 to 7 in Kansas City. Their second game ended in a 3-3 tie in the third so that the teams could catch trains.

Joe Vance, Fred Gay and Bob Miller failed to stop the Saints who started their scoring in the second inning with nine runs. They got 15 hits.

Southpaw Allan Johnson of the Milwaukee Brewers shut out Minneapolis 5 to 0 in their second game. George Blaeholder pitched the Brewers to a 6 to 2 victory in the first.

Columbus held a margin of two games over the last place Louisville Colonels as a result of an 8 to 3 win in Columbus yesterday. The second game was rained out. Charles Kelleher scattered six hits to

HUBBELL JOINS MATTY, OTHERS IN '200' CIRCLE

Giants Star Defeats Cub Team 5 to 1 After Several Efforts

NEW YORK, June 27.—(UP)—Only five pitchers ever won more than 200 games for the New York Giants and today Carl Hubbell, 35-year-old southpaw from Oklahoma, was one of them.

The "meal ticket" of Giant Manager Bill Terry joined Christy Mathewson, Joe McGinnity, Amos Rusie and Rube Marquard on the "200 or more" honor roll when he beat the Chicago Cubs yesterday.

It marked the fourth time that Hubbell had tried to get within the charmed circle which eludes most major league hurlers. Going into the 1938 season with 192 victories to his credit, the great left-hander compiled an enviable record of seven won and two lost by June 8. First trying for his 200th against St. Louis he was batted from the box on the 12th. Pittsburgh drove him to the showers on the 16th, and Cincinnati beat him on the 21st.

10 Runners Stranded

But the "Hub" beat the Cubs 5-1 yesterday by effective pitching in the pinches. He left 10 Chicago batsmen stranded on the basepaths. The Giants got only six hits off the combined offerings of French, Lee and Root, but they bunched them. Feature of the game was the home run by Bob Seeds, purchased from Newark of the International league last week. It was a 475-foot wallop that just touched the tip of Outfielder Reynolds' glove and rolled to the deep centerfield clubhouse steps.

The victory enabled the Giants to increase their National league lead to two games over the Cincinnati Reds who split a doubleheader with Philadelphia. The Reds left 11 men stranded as they dropped the opener 10-3. Klein and Weintraub homered for Philadelphia. In the nightcap, the Reds won 8-5 although outfit 14-13. Craft hit a homer for Cincinnati and Paul Derringer hung up his 10th victory.

Brooklyn and St. Louis played to a 1-1 standoff in five innings before rain washed out their scheduled double-header. The downpour also forced postponement of the Pittsburgh-Boston twin bill.

Yankees Gain Half

In the American league, the New York Yankees picked up half a game on the leading Cleveland Indians whose double header against the Boston Red Sox was rained out. The Yanks humbled the Detroit Tigers 10-3 behind the six-hit hurling of Monte Pearson.

Washington took a twin bill from the St. Louis Browns, scoring 9-1 in the opener and 7-2 in the aftermath. Harry Kelley held the Browns to seven hits in the first, while Wes Ferrell distributed nine in the second.

MIDLER, GOPHER TACKLE, TO COACH AT WESLEYAN

DELAWARE, O., June 27 —(UP)—Louis Midler, star tackle on the University of Minnesota football teams for the past two seasons, today was selected as line coach at Ohio Wesleyan. He succeeds Art Lewis, who resigned to take a post with the Cleveland Rams of the National Professional league.

Midler was one of the outstanding tackles in the Big Ten last season and his work won him a place on the Eastern team that played in the All-Star charity game at San Francisco New Years day.

Dr. Harold D. Ersig of Toledo retained his title of champion in the second nation crow shoot held in Pickaway county Saturday afternoon.

In a field of twelve contestants, Dr. Ersig killed 10 of the 36 crows taken in the contest. His official score was 1,300 points. Second place was won by Dean Reese, Columbus, with 825 points; third place, Dr. Blaine I. Talbut, Toledo, 700 points, and fourth, Laurel Van Camp, Genoa, 625 points.

Dr. Ersig won the first championship at Massillon, O., on June 5, 1937. If he retains the trophy for three years it becomes his permanent possession. He called 31 crows into range.

The national crow shoot was the closing feature of the fourth annual convention of the Ohio Crow Hunters Association, held Friday and Saturday in the New American hotel. Cedar Point was selected for the 1939 convention. Others bidding for the convention were Circleville, Massillon and Toledo.

Wooddell Presents Trophy
Presentation of the trophy to Dr. Ersig was made by Larry Wooddell, Columbus, Ohio conservation commissioner. Mr. Wooddell participated in the crow shoot and obtained the highest official score but requested that it not be considered by the referee. He killed six crows in eight shots and called in 62 for a total of 1,725 points.

One hunter who shot eight crows and called in 209 was disqualified due to failing to bring in the birds and making a late start and late return in the contest. He was Carl Keller of Dayton. Mr. Keller said he had difficulty in covering the territory assigned to him in addition to the late start. His score would have been 5,975.

Those who participated in the contest in addition to Dr. Ersig and Talbut and Messrs. Wooddell, Reese, Van Camp and Keller were William Kirby, Marysville; William Barrett, Massillon; Fred W. Hildendorff, Napoleon; Dr. J. W. Ogden, Haysville; Bent Donley, Ashland; and Warner Cartmille, London. Harry Griner, Circleville, and Anthony Pfarr, Marysville, who registered for the contest, did not participate.

Scoring Difficult
Officials experienced considerable difficulty in scoring. Under the rules established for the contest the shooters were given 100 points for their ability to use the crow call and interpretation of the crow language; 15 points for bringing an answer to the call; 50 points for the first crow actually killed or grounded and for each crow killed within shooting range in addition to the one killed or grounded 25 points. Additional crows killed counted 25 points.

The difficulty arose over the number of crows called in and what was considered the shooting range. Revisions on the scoring system will be made before next year's contest. J. W. Stuber, Columbus, was official referee and made the final decisions.

In making the presentation of the trophy Mr. Wooddell termed the organization in a healthy condition due to the amount of "fireworks" displayed in controversies over scores in the contest. "Any man who can go out and kill 10 crows in one hour is a real crow hunter," he said. The contest was held between 3 and 4 p. m. Each shooter was assigned a scorekeeper.

The suggestion that the name of the organization be changed to the North American Crow Hunters was left in the hands of the constitution committee for further study. Since the Ohio organization sponsored the national shoot many members believed it should be made a national organization.

POLICE WANTED, BUT CALL GOES TO ENGINE HOUSE

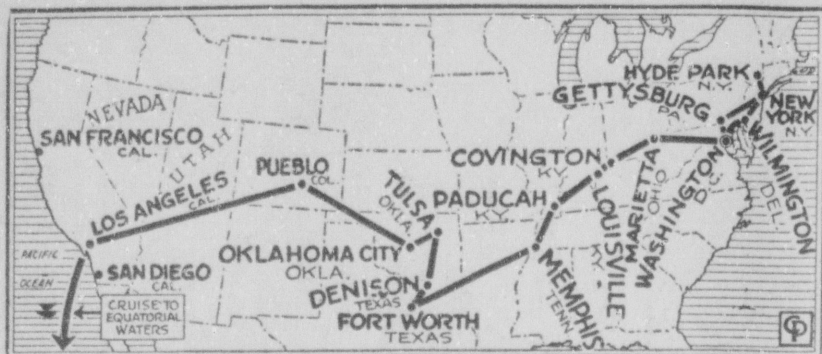

Firemen made a run to the Lancaster pike near the Hargus creek bridge at 10:15 p. m. Saturday on a call intended for the police department.

Firemen said they were unable to explain how the confusion in the call took place. They said a resident of Fairview avenue asked them to come to the district and after making the run they learned the police department was wanted.

It was not revealed for what purpose the police were wanted.

President to Travel Far

President's summer journeys

ALREADY the most-traveled of presidents, Franklin D. Roosevelt soon embarks on a transcontinental stump tour to carry his New Deal to the country and to assist loyal Democrats in the current campaign. The President's travels began with the marriage of his son John to Anne Lindsay Clark at Nahant, Mass., June 18. Then he cruised on the small yacht Potomac from Salem, Mass., to his Hyde Park, N. Y., home. Then there is a speech June 27 at Wilmington, Del., for the anniversary of the Swedes' first American landing. He has two speeches to make in New York, June 30, where he lays the cornerstone of the federal building on the grounds of the New York world's fair, and then one at the Gettysburg, Pa., battlefield, July 3. His western swing opens July 8 at Marietta, Ohio, where the 150th anniversary of the opening of the Northwest Territory is being celebrated. Other tentative stops on his western swing are shown. After reaching California, the President will cruise to the equatorial Pacific, with some fishing off the Galapagos islands. The plans call for the President to board a cruiser at the port of Los Angeles.

Barbara, Danish Husband To Enter Divorce Court

PARIS, June 27—(UP)—Countess Barbara Hutton Haugwitz-Reventlow and her Danish husband have definitely separated and a divorce is in prospect, a well informed source said today.

It was asserted that disagreement had been developing for two or three months and was now complete—and apparently final. The disagreement centered, it was said, in the future of Lance, the two year old son of Count Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow and the $40,000,000 American five-and-ten-cent store heiress. According to informants, the Countess thought that the Count was trying to over-assert his paternal authority as regards the child.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

"Mr. Deeds gets taken to town by a gal who met him in Paris!" That, in a nutshell, is the new Claudette Colbert-Gary Cooper comedy, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," a Paramount picture, which had its local premiere last night at the Cliftona Theatre.

Set against the background of Europe's gayest pleasure spots, the picture tells the mad story of an American millionaire who runs through a series of seven wives in rapid succession. He meets his match in a lovely French aristocrat who frankly marries him for his money and tames her "shrew" with the most unexpected success.

Cooper, in his role of blasé Croesus who does not become interested in his wife until he almost loses her, is a new person and bears out the predictions of many of his admirers that his ideal part would be that of a man-of-the-world. Miss Colbert, playing the urbane and resourceful daughter of the French aristocracy, tames her one man as she tamed her two in "I Met Him in Paris."

AT THE GRAND

Within 36 hours after their return to Hollywood from New York, Mack Gordon and Harry Revel, ace songwriting team, set a new record by composing two special songs for Alice Faye and Tony Martin in "Sweet As A Song," which Tony sings, and "Got My Mind On Music," which Alice sings.

At the Grand Theatre, the film brings to the screen such stellar performers as Alice Faye and Tony Martin, Fred Allen, Jimmy Durante, Gregory Ratoff, Joan Davis, Marjorie Weaver and Louise Hovick.

CLIMBERS STILL HUNT MISSING M'CORMICK BOY

Search To Resume After Wind And Hail Halt Activities

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 27 — (UP) — Expert mountain climbers, who were driven off the face of Sandia mountain by wind and rain and hail, today will resume search for the body of Medill McCormick, 21-year-old heir to publishing millions, if the elements permit.

Gov. Clyde L. Tingley and the youth's mother, Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms, have personally directed the search since Friday, but the actual mountain work is being done by experts in the hazardous sport. Virtually all searchers agreed that McCormick had met death on the precipitous face of the mountain, as did his companion, Richard Whitmer, 20. Whitmer's crushed body was found Friday evening.

He and McCormick drove into the mountains Wednesday from their Albuquerque homes. Presumably they fell that afternoon.

Five expert climbers, four of whom were flown here from Colorado, were working their way toward a ledge 1,000 feet below the crest of the 9,000 foot mountain when a storm forced them to descend. Tied together by ropes, the five were trying to reach a spot where Col. E. J. House of the New Mexico state police believed he had spotted through field glasses the crumpled form of a man.

Appeared To Be Man

"I'm not sure that it is a body," Colonel House said. "The distance is too great for certainty. It may be only a stone formation. However, it appeared to me that it was the form of a man dressed in blue trousers and a bed shirt."

While the experts will work their way along the sheer face of the granite cliffs, exploring ledges and crevices for a trace of young McCormick, about 200 other searchers will work through the lower ranges of the mountain. Mrs. Simms brought cowboys from her famous Trinchera ranch to search the base of the cliff and five Indian trackers from a New Mexico reservation beat through the back slope of the mountain.

Dr. Karl Arndt of Denver, one of the expert climbers, said climbing the face of Sandia mountain was very difficult.

"Sandia mountain cliff is as tough climbing as I have seen anywhere, either in America or Europe," he said. "It really isn't a place for mountain climbing. Rather, it's a spot for gymnastics."

Robert Ormes of Colorado Springs, and Dr. Frank Froelicher, headmaster of the exclusive Fountain Valley boys school near Colorado Springs, which both McCormick and Whitmer once attended, agreed with Dr. Arndt that the cliff was as difficult as any climb they had encountered.

Mrs. Simms, whose first husband was the late Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, was near collapse.

Juvenile Crime Up in England

LONDON (UP) — American gangster pictures are blamed by juvenile court authorities for the large increase in juvenile crime revealed in the latest criminal statistics for England and Wales. The number of indictable offenders under 17 years of age, it is shown, rose from 20,540 in 1934 to 27,126 in 1937.

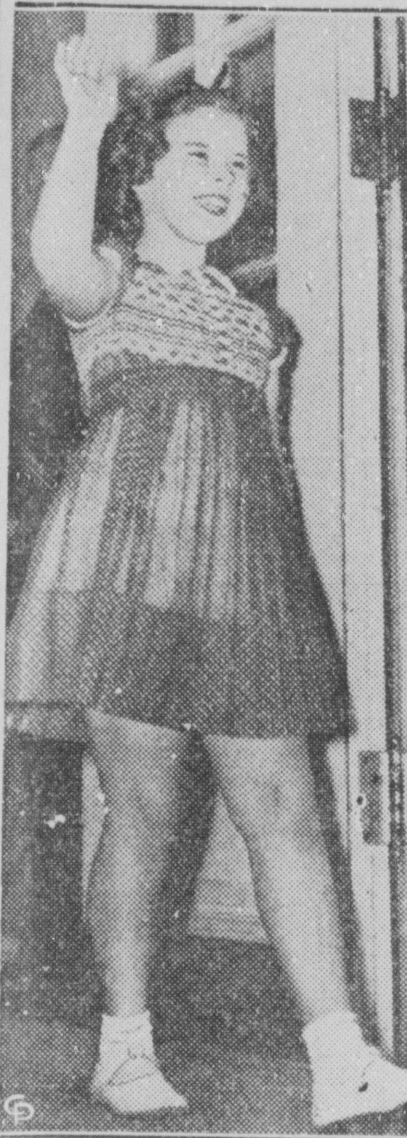

Henning Repsdorph, an expert on Danish and British law, has left for London to consult the Countess at her telephonic request, the United Press Copenhagen bureau reported. It was reported that Haugwitz-Reventlow had consulted Ane Kemp, a Copenhagen lawyer, and that Kemp sent Bunch Jensen, his associate, to Paris to see the Countess.

The Countess was reported still in London. The fact that a police guard over her residence had been relaxed was interpreted as indicating that she no longer feared so acutely an attempt to take her child away from her.

FARMER, SON ABDUCTED Two Officials Lose Car To Desperadoes

KANKAKEE, Ill., June 27 — (UP) — Deputy Sheriff Walter Bauer reported today that state police and deputy sheriffs shot and killed one of two desperadoes sought for the shooting of an Indiana policeman and two abductions. Bauer said the second bandit was wounded. The gunmen were ambushed at Deselm, Ill.

The reported slaying occurred approximately two hours after the bandits had kidnaped James Novy, a farmer, and his four-year-old son.

Bauer said the desperadoes were cornered in a corn field and shot as state police and deputies closed in on them from all sides.

He said an ambulance was en route to the corn field to take the wounded bandit to a hospital. The report said the gunmen abandoned a 1934 Studebaker they commandeered from Deputies Charles Hahn, 52, and Joe Kowalczyk, 50, and took over a black 1934 Chevrolet sedan operated by (Continued on Page Two)

REFUGEE TRAIN DELAYED BY AIR ATTACK OF JAPS

SHANGHAI, June 27.—(UP)—Departure of an international refugee train on which a number of Americans were scheduled to leave Hankow tomorrow may be delayed because of intense Japanese air bombardments of the Canton-Hankow railway line today.

Japanese bombers destroyed the railway bridge at Shangkai, between Canton and Hong Kong, and damaged the line at other points. They also bombed the southern part of Hainan island and raided half a dozen South China airports. Chinese reports said the Japanese made an unsuccessful attempt to land troops from warships at Tungliu, 25 miles above Anking. Tungliu is the last Chinese stronghold on the South bank of the Yangtze river between Anking and the Matang boom, which blocks the river.

Farmer's Query About Price Proves Problem

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(UP)—A Nebraska farmer asked a question last April that nearly stumped congress, the Department of Agriculture and farm belt newspaper editors. He got an answer from Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace today—four closely typewritten pages replete with statistics—but may have to forego harvesting to figure it out. The question, which he originally asked the editor of the Omaha World-Herald was: "Mister, can you tell me why May Wheat No. 2 hard, is quoted on the Chicago market at 84 1/2 cents, while No. 1 Northern Spring at Winnipeg is $1.25 1/2?" The editor couldn't. He offered to advertise for an answer. The farmer suggested that while he was about it the editor might also answer why foreign buyers took more Canadian than American wheat despite the 41 cents a bushel price difference. Droughts Possible The editor did some research. He found that in four of the last six years the Chicago quotations were higher than Winnipeg. The editor of the Lincoln (Neb.) Star came to his aid with the suggestion that (Continued on Page Two)

STORM SWEEPS ADELPHI AREA

Barn On William Strous Property Damaged By Gale Sunday

Severe wind accompanying a rainstorm at 3 p. m. Sunday caused heavy damage at the farm of William Strous who resides on the Pickaway-Ross county line road about a half mile West of Adelphi.

The wind tore off eight strips of metal roofing from each side of the roof on one end of the barn and blew off several doors. Parts of the roof were carried a quarter of a mile away. Hay in the barn was soaked by the rain. The steel tower of a windmill on the farm was twisted.

The Citizens Telephone Co. reported four poles were blown down on the Laurelville exchange. No other serious damage was caused in Pickaway county.

Rainfall of .61 of an inch fell in Circleville during the rainstorm Sunday, Dr. H. R. Clarke, weather recorder, reported. The highest temperature Sunday was 80 degrees. During the night the mercury dropped to 65.

The Scioto river had climbed one foot at 8 a. m. Monday but was still below normal. It measured three feet eight inches. Normal stage for the stream at the W. Main street bridge is four feet. The rain was needed in this district to aid corn, farmers said.

THREE MEN SAFE AFTER FIGHTING STORM IN BAY

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(UP)—Three men were recovering today from a night-long battle with a storm on Chesapeake bay — a battle which two of them fought with no other help than a cushion life preserver. The third rode out the storm in an oarless rowboat.

The three were Richard and Leonard Sebastian and Joseph Ambrogli. They were fishing from a rowboat when the storm blew up and they lost their oars. Ambrogli dove in to save the oars and couldn't regain the boat. Richard jumped in to help him and then neither could get back to the tossing craft.

Leonard threw them a cushion life preserver and his boat was soon blown out of sight.

Ten hours later a power boat picked up Leonard from the rowboat and a search was started for Richard and Ambrogli. They were found semi-conscious but safe, floating on the life preserver.

POWERS SCORE JAPAN'S TAKING OF HAINAN ISLE

LONDON, June 27 — (UP) — Great Britain and France have warned Japan that the occupation of the Chinese island of Hainan, off the French-Indo-China coast, might cause undesirable complications, Richard A. Butler, parliamentary under-secretary for foreign affairs, told the House of Commons today.

Butler said that should such complications arise, the British and French would afford each other such support as appeared warranted. Japanese warships recently destroyed Chinese forts on the island. It was believed that the Japanese were preparing to occupy the island, which dominates the sea approaches to the French colony at Saigon, French Indo-China.

Chinese reports from Hong Kong said that the Japanese had attempted to land a small party on the island but had been repulsed by Chinese machine gun batteries. Previously a high Japanese official in Shanghai said the Japanese planned to occupy Hainan and establish air bases there from where airplanes would be within easy distance of Yunnan-Fu, to which the Chinese government is expected to flee if forced to evacuate Hankow.

CITY MAY SEEK FEDERAL MONEY FOR NEW LIGHTS

President Of Council Says Possibility To Be Talked Tuesday Evening

OTHER QUESTIONS PENDING Addition To City Hall Given Consideration

Circleville councilmen may ask the Public Works Administration for funds to erect a boulevard lighting system in Circleville. John C. Goeller, president of council, said the notice of a special session of council for Tuesday at 8 p. m. would list the question for preliminary discussion. The councilman believes a boulevard lighting system with steel or concrete poles would cost from $10,000 to $12,000 and there is a possibility of obtaining federal aid.

Circleville voters in a special election last April turned down a 10-year contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. including a boulevard lighting system for the downtown district using wooden poles.

Other matters to be discussed Tuesday night include an addition to the city building for a jail, garage and health offices, and a possible addition to the hospital; a contract with the electric company to furnish power for the disposal plant, and an easement with the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad to place pipes under the track to reach the disposal plant.

Paxson, 31, Escapes Again

For the third time in 12 days, Harold "Happy" Paxson, 31, escaped Sunday from the Logan county jail at Bellefontaine. Paxson picked the locks on a pair of handcuffs that held his wrists together and on another pair that held one wrist to a chain inside his cell. He crawled through a ventilator, out an attic skylight and slid to the ground on a lightning rod. He used the skylight and lightning rod for escapes on June 14 and June 22. Paxson was lodged in the jail first as a parole violator last May 20. After his escape on June 14 he was captured in Circleville on June 21 and returned to Bellefontaine. He escaped on June 22. Paxson was recaptured at Lima on June 24 and placed in solitary confinement that day. Sheriff Charles Bewley said Paxson was in his cell at 1 a. m. Sunday. His escape was discovered at 8:30 a. m. when jailers went to his cell with breakfast. Paxson was sentenced to the

FOUR GO THROUGH WINDOW ESCAPING OVERTURNED AUTO

Mowery Car Leaves Route 22; Motor Catches Fire

Four persons escaped with minor cuts and bruises Sunday at 11 p. m. when the automobile in which they were riding skidded off Route 22 about two and a half miles East of Circleville, went into a ditch and caught fire.

Ned Barnes, 19, of S. Pickaway street, was cut on the arm and hand when he broke out a rear window of the car so all could climb out. Others in the car who escaped with bruises were James Mowery, Jr., 19, of Circleville township; Eleanor McAbee, 16, Wayne township, and Jeanne Thacher, 15, Jackson township.

Mowery was driving the car. He said the group had attended a show in Lancaster and was returning home. Mowery said lights of a passing car blinded him and the car started skidding. It turned on its side in the ditch. The motor caught fire, but the flames did not reach the inside of the car.

Escape Through Window All crawled out of the auto through the rear window broken out by Barnes. Passing motorists brought the four to Circleville. The car was badly damaged.

AMBUSH TRAPS MEN WHO SHOT INDIANA OFFICER

Second Outlaw Wounded, Deputy Sheriff Says, During Fight

James Novy, a farmer. With Novy was the boy.

Two Held Captives
They swapped cars near Wilmington, 12 miles South of here, and held the farmer and the boy captive.

Hahn and Kowalczyk were released unharmed early today two miles west of Cook, Ind., near the Northern Illinois-Indiana border. The two were overpowered and abducted last night six miles North of LaPorte, Ind., when, by chance, they came on the scene where the gunmen had wounded State Policeman Ray Dixon, 28. "Shoot to kill" orders had been issued by Illinois and Indiana state police who shifted their barricade of all roads on a line extending North and South, Northwest of Kankakee when it was determined that the gunmen had changed routes. At first, it was believed the pair was speeding toward Chicago.

Police said they believed the bandits might attempt to hide in some outlying farmhouse during the day to escape being trapped in the widespread manhunt.

They reported that the gunmen, in kidnapping Novy and the boy, had dropped a .38 calibre pistol.

Active in Wisconsin
The bandits were believed to be the same pair who fled from Stevens Point, Wis., Thursday after holding up a woman.

Three gunmen have been sought since June 17 for a series of hold-ups, shootings and an abduction in Wisconsin. Two of these have been linked to the Indiana shooting and kidnapping by an automobile they left behind.

The machine in which Dixon found the pair bore Michigan license plates which had been stolen Thursday at Columbus, Wis., reportedly after the holdup at Stevens Point. After shooting Dixon, the two took over the machine in which the two deputies had motored to the scene.

"They were pretty tough," Hahn said. "They took $15 from me and $6 from Kowalczyk but otherwise they treated us all right. I was driving with Kowalczyk along side of me, while they sat in the back seat."

"From their conversation I gathered that they were fleeing from some crime they had committed in Michigan yesterday. They talked about going to Chicago via Kankakee and Joliet, Ill., but that may have been said for our benefit."

He said the gunmen had three suitcases with them. Dixon had stopped to assist them, believing their automobile had stalled. He was in uniform. As he approached their car the driver opened fire. Dixon was shot three times in the abdomen and once in the hand. He is expected to die.

The scene of the shooting was on Fall road, branching off U. S. Highway 20, in northern Indiana where Desperadoes John Dillinger and Al Brady made some of their most spectacular raids.

Probing Wreck
Dixon, accompanied by R. J. Hennings, photographer for a South Bend, Ind., newspaper, left the Chesterton, Ind., barracks early last night to investigate an accident at the intersection of the two roads where two automobiles, one driven by Walter Sanders, 22, Michigan City, Ind., the other driven by John E. Boergert, 23, Kenilworth, Ill., had collided.

Boergert and his companion, Miss Laura Schmidt, 20, Detroit, were injured slightly. Dixon arrested Sanders as the driver responsible for the accident, put him in the police car and with Hennings started for the LaPorte jail.

They had proceeded only half a mile South of Fall road, when Dixon sighted the gunmen's car. He stopped and got out.

"What's the trouble?" he asked. "We can't get it started," one man answered.

"Maybe I can help," Dixon said. As he approached the car, the driver, a red-haired man, jumped out, leveled an automatic and fired. Dixon slumped to the ground.

Hennings jumped from the police car and fled. The gunmen fired two or three shots at him but missed. Sanders covered in the back seat of the police car. The desperadoes told him to get out and run after he had pleaded that he was a prisoner himself. He jumped over a wall and watched.

When the gunmen had fled from the scene of the shooting, Sanders returned and brought Dixon to Holy Family hospital here. Dr. James J. Kiltner said the officer had "practically no chance to recover," he said Dixon was too weak even for a blood transfusion. Fifteen of Dixon's fellow officers had offered their blood.

SUPREME COURT RECEIVES PLEA OF ANNA HAHN

WASHINGTON, June 27—(UP)—Attorneys for Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn today asked the U. S. Supreme court to review validity of her conviction and death sentence on charge of a Cincinnati poison-murder.

Mrs. Hahn was convicted of killing Jacob Wagner by poison and sentenced to be electrocuted. Her attorneys contended that introduction of certain evidence during her trial was in violation of the due-process clause of the Constitution.

Mrs. Hahn, German-born matron, originally was scheduled to die last Spring but the execution was stayed to permit her attorneys to appeal the sentence which was affirmed by the Ohio Supreme Court.

During her trial, the state contended that Wagner was one of several men killed by Mrs. Hahn. The state contended that Mrs. Hahn took over all possessions of the murdered men.

Mrs. Hahn's attorneys, in the appeal petition contended the trial judge illegally permitted introduction as evidence of "various parts of the bodies" of George Obendorfer, Albert J. Palmer and George Gellman, all of whom the state contended were other victims of Mrs. Hahn.

Farmer's Query About Price Proves Problem

droughts in the United States and Canada were responsible. The farmer declared that the Star's explanation was "nonsense." Droughts have occurred all over the world and still "United States wheat is the cheapest in the world," he said.

He suggested that Secretary Wallace has "a pretty powerful hand on the Chicago Board of Trade" but that he didn't want to even suggest "there is an effort to frighten us farmers into cooperating with the control program."

The whole thing began to get on the nerves of the World-Herald editor. He said that he couldn't bring himself to suspect that "Wallace is deliberately a bear in the wheat market."

Finally, he passed the question on to Sen. Edward R. Burke, D., Neb., who asked several of his colleagues, but they didn't know. "The heck with it," Burke finally decided "let Wallace answer it."

After his long explanation, Wallace summarized his answer this way: "The reason that the price of good milling wheat in Canada this year is higher than usual relative to other wheat is because there is a shortage of good milling wheat in that country."

Wallace didn't know why Canada sold more wheat abroad, but insisted that American wheat brought just as much on the world market as anybody else's.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

BY BOB BURNS

"Yes, the table looks mighty pretty, but where's the coffee?" She says, "Oh, you're so unappreciative—I can't think of everything."

Men are usually crude, blunt and matter-of-fact and it's all right as long as they're dealing with other men. But I honestly think they should take a course in art and culture, just so they'll be able to understand the finer and more sensitive qualities of the women folks.

I know a newly married man who sat down to his wife's first breakfast and when she called his attention to how pretty the table was, fixed with flowers she had gone out to gather herself, he said, "Oh, you're so unappreciative—I can't think of everything."

Worker's Refusal To Take Job Brings Dismissal

District W. P. A. officials today offered employed W. P. A. workers to farmers for labor work on specific demand, and also announced the establishment of a routine for making certified but unemployed W. P. A. eligibles available for farm labor work.

The policy became effective in 20 Central Ohio counties of W. P. A.'s District Six through a letter of instructions issued by Director J. L. Kelly to Montgomery Campbell, employment supervisor.

Simultaneously, the National Re-employment Service announced its intention to establishing temporary offices where farmers are instructed to make their first contact to get W. P. A. labor help through traveling assignment offices of the N. R. S. organization.

Condition's Disclosed
Specific conditions under the farm labor policy were outlined by W. P. A. officials as follows:

Refusal of a W. P. A. worker to accept a farmer's offer at prevailing farm labor rates in the county will be cause for dismissal from W. P. A.

Acceptance of the offer and satisfactory service in the job commits the W. P. A. to rehire the worker immediately on termination of his private employment. The worker is held responsible for notifying W. P. A. of the termination. The employer is warned to expect a W. P. A. query after the termination on the nature of the worker's services.

Unsatisfactory service in the private farm job, resulting in discharge of the worker by the farmer, cancels the obligation of W. P. A. to rehire the worker.

In the latter case, the worker is given the right of appeal through the labor relations section of the W. P. A. employment division, for ascertainment of facts and determination of the justice of the dismissal.

Farmers seeking labor help from W. P. A. workers were advised by W. P. A. officials to contact the office of National Re-employment or Ohio State Employment services in local areas.

National Re-employment service offices serving W. P. A.'s District Six are located in:

Fremont for Wyandot county, Springfield for Clark, Champaign, Madison, Greene, and Union counties.

Chillicothe for Fayette, Ross and Pickaway counties.

Newark for Licking, Fairfield, Knox, and Delaware counties.

Mansfield for Richland, Crawford, and Morrow counties.

Sidney for Hardin and Logan counties.

Extra temporary offices of the National Re-employment Service established in areas where the applicants are certified for W. P. A. work. An assignment representative will be present at these relief offices on certain days which will be announced by relief directors, and the relief directors will handle requests for reference to assignment officer on other days.

More Rain Falls
Now that it has begun to rain, more worry comes along as to how much we are to have and when it will quit. It was much needed and will do great good to the late planted corn which has rather a bad case of "short growth." Potatoes, too, will come in for what they have badly needed. And Bill

UNDER THE BIG TOP

THANKS FOR THE CAMEL. NOW, MISS CONNOLLO, HOW ARE CHANCES FOR A STORY ON YOUR BIGGEST THRILL AS A STUNT AERIALIST?

OH, NO, LADIES FIRST. TONY, TELL HIM ABOUT YOUR FIRST TRIPLE SOMERSAULT IN THE AIR.

OH, ASK TERRELL ABOUT HIS LIONS!

"WELL, YOU SEE, NO WOMAN TO MY KNOWLEDGE, HAD EVER EXECUTED A TRIPLE, MID-AIR SOMERSAULT. I'LL NEVER FORGET THE FIRST TIME I TRIED IT UNDER THE BIG TOP."

"...BECAUSE THIS STUNT REQUIRES GREATLY INCREASED SPEED, I HAD TO DEPEND ALMOST ENTIRELY ON AUTOMATIC TIMING."

"...BUT AS I WHIRLED OFF INTO SPACE... ONCE... TWICE... FOR A SPLIT-SECOND I PRACTICALLY LOST CONSCIOUSNESS..."

"...THREE TIMES... AND... I MADE IT! MY TIMING WAS PERFECT, AND ANOTHER 'FIRST PERFORMANCE' LEFT ME THRILLED AND SAFE!"

"...BY FAST THINKING AND MOVING, I GOT THE UPPER HAND. BEFORE I LEFT THE CAGE, EVERY LION WAS BACK IN PLACE."

"I HAD ALMOST COMPLETED MY ACT WITH 25 LIONS, WHEN SPARKY AND ANOTHER MALE WENT FOR EACH OTHER..."

"TRYING TO BREAK IT UP, I WAS KNOCKED DOWN AND SPARKY TURNED ON ME. HE LOOKED AS BIG AS AN ELEPHANT FROM WHERE I WAS SPRAWLED. THINGS LOOKED PRETTY BAD, BUT..."

WELL, IT'S HARD TO SAY WHICH OF YOU HAS THE TOUGHEST JOB, BUT IT'S EASY TO SEE YOU BOTH NEED HEALTHY NERVES!

WELL, WE ARGUE ABOUT WHOSE JOB IS THE HARDEST, BUT WE SURE AGREE THAT WE CAN'T RISK SHAKY NERVES!

AND YOU CAN BET THAT'S A BIG REASON WHY WE BOTH SMOKE CAMELS. THEY NEVER BOTHER OUR NERVES!

CAMELS SURE SET ME RIGHT — FROM EVERY ANGLE. AFTER A TURN IN THE BIG CAGE, I NEED A LIFT IN ENERGY AND I GET IT FROM A CAMEL. I FIND CAMELS AID MY DIGESTION TOO. I'VE SMOKE CAMELS FOR 16 YEARS. HAVE ONE, TONY?

YOU BET, TERRELL, THERE'S A BIG DIFFERENCE BETWEEN CAMELS AND OTHER KINDS — IN MILDNESS, IN TASTE, IN THE FEELING OF CONTENTMENT THEY GIVE — IN SO MANY WAYS!

THE 28-HOUR DAY

HERE is something new under the sun, and also out of the sun. It is an experiment in psychology undertaken by University of Chicago students in Kentucky's Mammoth Cave. They are trying to find out whether men can live in a daily cycle of 28 hours instead of 24 hours.

Apparently they are not dividing the present length of our day into 28 shorter hour-periods, but adding four hours to the regular day. The experts want to learn how it affects efficiency, physical functions, and so on.

The doctors never thought of anything like that when they put the tubercular patients in Mammoth Cave half a century or more ago, thinking the chemically pure air—made so by the limestone—would cure them. The air was all right, but the lack of sunlight, whose value wasn't understood then, seems to have killed them. They had no such substitute as ultra-violet lamps and vitamin tablets.

The blind fish living in the Mammoth Cave River might give some useful testimony in the present experiment. By going without light, they have learned to go without sight. That seems a greater fact in adaptation than learning to live in a daily cycle a few hours longer or shorter than usual.

Men with irregular or unusual working and sleeping hours would probably tell the professors that a man can adapt himself to almost anything in the way of daily routine after a few weeks or months.

MUSICAL FISH

FISH not only hear sounds, but have musical discrimination and taste. At least, an angler writes to the New York Times that he has proved fish are attracted by classical music and repelled by swing.

Wishing to experiment, this fisherman took a portable phonograph and a variety of records along with his regular tackle to his favorite fishing spot.

When he played Bach and Beethoven records his success was amazing. He refrained from giving the exact figures, lest readers of the Times should think he was exaggerating. When he played a swing record, his angler's luck vanished.

"The water had been alive with fish, but as soon as I played the swing there was a swirling and then quiet. The fish had been shocked and agitated and had fled."

It may be that this Izaak Walton was spoofing the Times and its readers, but the fish story has a lot of appeal for anti-swing humans.

Senator Carter Glass says "Washington is no place for a sane man." He might put it stronger. The world is no place for a sane man.

World At A Glance

Republicanism is not getting into the 1938 congressional campaign on the basis of as close a partnership with anti-New Deal Democrats as seemed likely as recently as only a few weeks ago.

There was talk then of an out-and-out coalition.

Old Guard Republicans and the folk known as Bourbon Democrats did not, after all, formerly have so very much in common. Both groups were conservative but they were different kinds of conservatives. They still are. They are, indeed, agreed in opposing the New Deal. For a while it looked as if they might unite on that issue. When it comes to a showdown, however, they fail to display much cohesion.

THE LINEUP

The Bourbon Democrats do not want to become Republicans. They want to wrest control of the Democratic party from the New Dealers' hands, and to be recognized as the Democratic party, leaving the New Dealers as no party in particular.

The Republicans do not want to lose their partisan integrity. They will be glad to welcome seceding Democrats into their fold, but they want them to come in as converts to Republicanism.

The fight, then, evidently will be:

1. Between Democrats and Democrats, in the nominating primaries.

2. Between Democrats and Republicans on election day.

REPUBLICANS SOLID?
The Republicans will be solid enough.
The Democrats will be split. Candidates wearing Democratic labels will win on election day. The Republicans cannot possibly gain a senate majority; not enough senate seats are at stake to give them one. Theoretically they can gain a representative majority, but such an overturn this year is, practically, unimaginable.

What the Republicans hope for is a chance in 1940.

TO STYMIE NEW DEAL?
If the G. O. P. materially improves its congressional position (though still in a minority) for the ensuing two years and if the anti-New Deal Democrats at least retain their present congressional strength, between them they will have the New Dealers stymied until the next campaign.

And a stymied, impotent administration cannot win any credit for itself while it remains that way.

Times certainly cannot improve under such circumstances.

The administration will have

GUTZON BORGLUM LOBBIER

WASHINGTON—Most amazing piece of lobbying of the entire congressional session was put across by turbulent Gutzon Borglum, famous sculptor of national figures on the sides of mountains.

Borglum came to Washington rather late in the session, and with hardly anyone realizing it, passed a new bill for his Mt. Rushmore, S. D. Memorial. Also he got $100,000 initial appropriation, with three times that much authorized for the future.

The figures which Borglum is carving into the face of Mt. Rushmore are Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. Past work was going so slowly, because of lack of funds, that it would have required eleven more years to finish it, on top of almost that much time already put in on the job.

Borglum also was having trouble with his committee, and succeeded in kicking most of it out and appointing a new one completely friendly to him.

The new group will include Senator Pittman, of Nevada; Isabella Greenway, ex-Congresswoman from Arizona; Senator Bulow of South Dakota; Senator Norris of Nebraska; Herman Oliphant, Counsel of the Treasury; Russell Arundel, collector of "doodles"; Kent Keller, Congressman from Illinois; Governor Hanna of North Dakota, and William Williamson, Rapid City, S. D., attorney.

One feature of the new bill which Borglum lobbied through Congress is provision for a room to be carved out of the mountain and which is to be filled with present day records (including copies of The Washington Merry-Go-Round), then sealed for posterity.

Borglum proposes that the room remain sealed for 20,000 years, but other members of the committee believe folks will get curious in only a couple of hundred years and open up the rooms despite Borglum's instructions.

NOTE—Wonder what the papers would have said if John L. Lewis had tried to pass a bill like this?

HERE'S THAT MAN AGAIN

Charley West, one-time glad-hander for the President on Capitol Hill, now has another job which he hopes to land. It is to replace William I. Myers as head of the Farm Credit Administration.

Myers is stepping out in September to return to Cornell, from which Henry Morgenthau persuaded him to come to Washington to organize the Farm Credit Administration.

Myers has recommended as his successor the deputy governor, F. F. Hill, a non-politician. But various politicians, smelling a lush job, have been beating a track to the door of Jimmy Roosevelt. Among them is Charley West.

If Myers has his way, Hill will get the job.

Too bad that Sigmund Freud, the famous psychologist, is leaving Vienna, Hitler needs him.

Children Are Treated for Rheumatic Heart Ill

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

"THE CRIPPLES who do not limp" is the striking phrase used by Dr. Howard Haggard of Yale to describe children with rheumatic heart disease.

A concerted attack on this problem is being made in many parts of the country, but especially by an institution known as Irvington House in New York. Prevention of rheumatic fever is practically beyond our control because we do not know the cause or the nature of its spread, but after it has attacked a child and heart disease is present, a great deal can be done to prevent the late serious effects.

Good medical care may save lives and lengthen years and bring these children the joys that other children have. Salvage here is far more difficult than in actually crippling diseases. A child with a withered leg can see his own infirmity and seeing it, understand it. A child with a crippled heart cannot see his infirmity. He must be told about it and being told, believe it. He must suit his life to an intangible infirmity that imposes its limitations on many of physical activities.

Summer is an especially good time for recuperation of these children, and camps in various parts of the country are established for this purpose. Irvington House at Irvington-on-Hudson is the only sanatorium in the United States for children with hearts crippled by rheumatic fever. Children are furnished with what is called their "mental crutches". Guided month after month by experienced and understanding teachers and nurses, the child learns to understand the strength of his sick heart and to follow its dictates, and in the comradeship of boys and girls similarly handicapped, he begins to lead a normal daily existence—normal.

Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

SHUN IT LIKE POISON

HOPES OF the declarer are sometimes very transparent. No clairvoyant ability is needed at all to tell that he would rather have you lead a certain suit to him than try leading it himself. If such is the case, your job is to avoid that suit as a rodent would duck "Rough-on-Rats". Lead anything else in preference.

THEIR VIEW?
I do not mean to imply that the G. O. P. looks optimistically toward two more years of hard times to bring it back into power. Nevertheless, if we DO have two more years of hard times, it wants to be able to say, after that, if it returns to power, and times DO improve, that the G. O. P. improved them—all by the G. O. P.'s own self, without any help from a lot of seceding Democrats.

Politicians look ahead that way. They may expect to die in the meantime, thus not benefiting by their reasoning, but actually they are honest.

USELESS COMMISSION
Changing the subject, here is an odd thing:
It is contended that the government's "independent offices" ought to be reorganized—and some of them abolished, as superfluous.

Well, included in the war department is the California Debris Commission. It dates back to the time of the San Francisco earthquake and fire, when, for a while, undoubtedly, there was some debris to be disposed of.

If that debris hasn't been acted to yet, when will it be?

3 was played from dummy, East put on the 8 and South won with the 9. The heart A dropped the K and the two other hearts cashed, one providing a spot for the losing club. West's contention was that he did not return a club because after his signal his partner should have played the K, but that was no excuse for West, to open up a new suit for the declarer.

North and South reached a contract of 4-Spades on this deal and West started the defense by leading the diamond Q. Declarer won this with the K and cashed his two top spades. When the Q failed to drop, South lost hope of making the contract, for he had one sure loser in trumps, one in diamonds and two in clubs, as well as a possible heart.

West, however, aided the declarer by a poor play which made the game possible. On the second spade lead, West signaled a club. South then gave up a trick to East's high trump, whereupon the club 4 was returned. Now West led the heart 2, which was extended to yet, when will it be?

ODDITIES OF THE WORLD
British women's prisons report their average daily population fell from 2,484 in 1913 to 674 in 1936.

Enrollment in London's publicly-maintained schools decreased by 56,651 in a single year as a result of the great movement of population away from the center of the city to the suburban areas.

CHAPTER 43

IF ELLEN had been surprised when she awoke on Thursday morning, on Friday morning she was positively amazed.

She and Reynita stared from their upstairs window not at half a dozen Indian wigwags, but at what would have passed for a reservation encampment in 1875.

"There must be a hundred of them!" Ellen declared, incredulous. Reynita could only stare. A dozen or more wigwags had appeared, but besides that there were other dozens of nondescript tents, also camps made simply in and under wagon beds, or with blankets and duffel spread on the open ground.

In another area were 26 khaki-colored army tents—Ellen counted them—with white people around them. She and Reynita had been busy inside their own home all during the late afternoon and evening, making last-minute plans and entertaining their house guests from Hollywood. They simply had not found time to note what had happened outside.

"Is mucho de la whoopee?" Bill greeted Ellen. "It's just Friday morning, senorita, and already 160 people have come!"

With customary efficiency, Bill had rented the army tents and some cots from Fort Huachuca, which lay 15 miles or so eastward. They would be needed to shelter some of the guests, he explained, although most of them would come prepared to camp. The cowboys had vacated their bunkhouse for guests, in the name of hospitality.

"What is that odor?" Ellen demanded of him. "It is something cooking. I must go out and see everything!"

"That's barbecue," Bill explained. "Uncle Buckshot is chef."

Buckshot Brown had caused a long open pit to be dug, and a big hardwood fire to be started in it at midnight. At dawn he had put wire net over the pit, and now above the glowing coals he was roasting four steers, six young rams, six lambs, six goats, and four half-grown pigs. From time to time guests themselves came up to add chunks of assorted beef, mutton, fowl, wild game.

At 10 o'clock about 40 Indians had looked above to form a circle in front of Ellen's house, and were chanting "EE-yah-yah-yah EE-yah-yah-yah" in a haunting rhythm. Tom-toms in the center of the ring beat an accompaniment as blood-chilling as it was in the year that Columbus sailed.

Feasting was high at noon, and all afternoon merrymaking increased. Most of it was impromptu, spontaneous, all the more delightful therefore. Ellen and the Hollywood folk were enthralled. Ellen said she felt more like a guest than a hostess. Men stared at her not rudely but in open admiration. And she hardly got a word with Bill Baron all day.

Mr. McIntyre of the United States border patrol drove up from Nogales at about sundown, but said he had to go on to Tucson for the night. He was elated at the big doings, said it was a fine crowd.

Sid Bronberg, Elwood Loring

and Mr. Conway, of the original party that had come from Hollywood returned from their hunting trip in Mexico at seven o'clock. They had killed one jaguar, and exhibited the pelt with pride. Sid had done the actual shooting, and told about it in detail at least 20 times.

Sid, moreover, was instantly excited about the fiesta. He had thought, like the others, that it would be a typical rustic dance. Instead it was as Geneva James wryly remarked—"an epic, colossal and magnificent."

Sid wandered around gazing at the wigwags, the other camps, the barbecue pits, the Mexicans, the cowboys, the horses. He did a solo dance—after hilarious invitation—to the music of a cowboy string orchestra beside a campfire. Then confessed he was having the time of his life.

Ellen had hired a 12-piece Mexican orchestra from the famous Dons club in Phoenix, and it arrived ready to play at nine o'clock. By nine-thirty high jinks were roaring inside Ellen's beautiful ranch home. Dancing and hilarity was at a peak in her dining room, her living room, her two porches, her halls. Not more than a fifth of the guests were in at once, but the others went on dancing, ad lib, outside.

"Goodness, Reynita, there must be 25 or 30 musicians out here even!" Ellen said to her friend, when they chanced to meet for a moment beside one merry group. "Look at that old man with the accordion!"

A wrinkled old-timer was playing and swaying with contagious pleasure. Guitar and banjo players would walk by and chime in; violinists—"fiddlers"—would add their plaintive tones. One happy, rhythmical cowboy had borrowed a Hopi Indian tom-tom and converted it into an orchestra drum, doing amazingly well with it too.

That outburst came from Sidney Bronberg, when he chanced by Ellen and Reynita.

They were all looking. To people who dealt with "spectacles" and general grandeur for the screen, this shouldn't have been impressive, possibly. But this was the real thing! Genuine! Here was "theater" and showmanship as elemental as meat and bread; a part of the very souls of men and women. Here was illumination from stars and a thin moon and two dozen crackling campfires, and there to one side was a great ranch home glowing with light and hilarity, and all about were happy voices raised in conversation or song.

Ellen could hardly speak by 10 o'clock. A lump had tightened in her throat and stayed there. She wanted to cry, somehow, not in sorrow but in ecstasy. She moved all about the place, seeing this group and that, mingling with red folk and white, farm women, ranch girls, mountain men, prospectors, cattle herders, everybody. Mostly people she had never seen before, but for whom somehow she felt a fierce love. The hearty friendliness of them was overwhelming to her impressionable soul.

Her male guests from Hollywood

wood demanded her presence inside at midnight. It was still crowded when she allowed Elwood Loring to escort her back in. All of a sudden she remembered that she had barely seen Bill Baron all day. Not once had he asked to dance with her. Only a time or two he had greeted her hurriedly in passing, once to say he had counted more than 600 guests on the scene. She began to long for a quiet word with him.

Beaming, booming Sid Bronberg at once saw her come in, and hastened to her side.

"Ellen, it is wonderful!" he shouted, above the music. "Never have I seen such a show! Listen—I want to produce a picture here. Geneva has the idea all done up—see? A border romance. A handsome man on a horse like a cowboy caballero—that'll be your friend Baron. He must do it! But listen, Ellen—I want to do it here! Here, you understand? I want this ranch, your ranch, to be the setting. All right? It's perfect! Just look out there! Just look in here! Just—!"

She had seen Sid Bronberg wrought up before, but not just raving. She knew it wasn't just raving. That man's enthusiasms were worth millions. An idea like this meant instant fluctuation on Wall Street. An enthusiasm such as this from Sidney Bronberg caused millionaire competitors to sit up nights.

He was a guest in her home. An old friend, a suitor. One cannot argue against such pressure.

"Surely, Sidney, if you want to," she smiled sweetly at him. "I myself think it's a grand show here. It would go big on the screen."

Felix Montoya came up to her then and begged for a dance. He was the most colorful man on the ranch that night, he and his golden-and-crimson Mexican costume. He was handsome, glowing.

Other men were asking for dances too, and Ellen had to make up her mind despite the confusion. But suddenly it was made up for her. She caught a glimpse of Bill dancing with Panola Montoya. An old hurt crept through her. She bit her lip and waited away with Felix.

Ten minutes later an area on the floor had been cleared, and Ellen and Felix were doing "El Jarabe Tapatio", prettiest, flashiest and perhaps oldest of all the Spanish dances. Reynita had taught her some of the steps, and with her natural aptitude at dancing she followed Felix in it now, even in that part when he put his huge sombrero on the floor and she had to dance around the brim of it.

"YEA!" yelled Sid Bronberg. "GREAT! GREAT! We put that in the picture too, Ellen. You will do that same dance!"

She kept her face smiling—she had 400 or more guests—but Ellen Dale felt somehow that her heart was sinking. After having tasted quietude and genuineness on a ranch for several weeks, was she to be coerced back to Hollywood? And to see Bill, the only man she had ever loved, lured from this natural happiness, into a life she knew to be fraught with sham?

She wanted to flee and be alone, but she kept on dancing.

Peanut butter addicts will like these croquettes made with a cup of peanut butter plus two tablespoons tomato paste, one beaten egg, salt and pepper, one-quarter cup chopped celery, one tablespoon minced onion, one and two-thirds cups flaked crackers and one-half cup hot milk. Into peanut butter stir tomato paste and beaten egg. Add seasoning, celery and onion.

Finnan Haddie Canape

Finnan haddie is always good, and is especially nice served as a canape. For one cup of the fish you will need six bread rounds, one teaspoon anchovy paste, three sprigs of parsley, paprika and quartered lemons. Place leftover steamed or boiled haddie in the refrigerator. With a biscuit cutter, cut rounds or a favorite shape of bread slices. When the fish is cool, break it into small pieces. Spread the bread rounds with a very thin coating of anchovy paste. Spread the fish on this. Sprinkle with paprika and place a tiny sprig of parsley on each round laden with fish. Serve with lemon quarters.

Favorite Recipe

Then there's our favorite way of serving sea food. To prepare six servings you'll need one cup rice, one and one-half tablespoons butter, two tablespoons flour, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, one and one-half cups milk, one and three-quarters cups flaked salmon, haddock, shrimp or other fish, three tablespoons lemon juice, two teaspoons Worcestershire sauce and grated cheese. Cook the rice until tender. Melt the butter, gradually add flour and, when blended, and the milk. (Fresh milk or evaporated milk and water may be used). Stir until thick. Add the seasoning and the fish. Place the rice in a buttered baking dish or baking shells, add the fish, sprinkle with grated cheese and brown in a hot oven. Some mustard may be added to the sauce if a very pungent dish is desired. Serve with a fresh mixed salad, if using as a luncheon dish, or for

YEAR AFTER year the grape leafhopper plagues the commercial grape grower, as well as the home gardener who carefully tends a few pet grape vines. When attacked by this pest the grape leaves turn a light greenish-yellow, the vines lack vigor, and the entire plant takes on a run-down appearance.

The grape leafhopper, greatly enlarged, is illustrated in this Garden-Graph. These small, but very active insects, are usually found on the underside of the grape leaves. They are pale yellow in color with red spots.

This pest is difficult to control, since it feeds by sucking the sap from the foliage and not by eating the leaf itself. The best control method is to spray or dust with nicotine. If Bordeaux mixture is being used on the grape vines for

Hospitals Bidding For Right to Handle Maxie

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, June 27.—(UP)—Picture of a man reading the Sunday sports pages:

LONG BRANCH, N. J.—Max Baer signs to fight Joe Louis in September; fourteen hospitals already are bidding for the X-ray rights to Max Baer, who will train for the fight at a prominent hospital here so that he will feel right at home when he goes back to it after the bout. Promoter Mike Jacobs is going to advertise the fight for 15 rounds, which proves he has a swell sense of humor.

No one can figure out why Baer wants the fight unless it's because he is jealous of all the publicity Schmeling got for being knocked out so quickly, and figures he can better the German's time in hitting the floor. Well, maybe he can, but he is going to pretty nearly have to come in crawling. Max will be on his back so much his seconds will have to have a sky-writer flying overhead, writing his instructions in smoke.

BOSTON—War Admiral set to race Seabiscuit on Wednesday; this is getting to read like a headline out of Joe Miller's joke book. It was a good gag the first time it was pulled, but so was the one about the chicken crossing the road. The next news from Boston, I suppose, will be that War Admiral has come up with an ache in his pitching arm, or that Seabiscuit has asked to be excused because it's maid's afternoon off, or that Owner Sam Riddle doesn't think the Admiral should run because the sun is too bright, the breeze too soft, the birds singing too sweet, or something like that. One thing's a cinch, though—if they don't run this time they never will. Because one more year and both horses will be so old they'll be running under the colors of the Townsend plan.

WIMBLEDON, ENGLAND—Mrs. Helen Willis Moody rallies to defeat Mrs. Bobbie Heinie Miller of South Africa, 8-6, 6-4; in her good days Mrs. Moody could have beaten the likes of Mrs. Miller 6-0, 6-0, without using anything but her paint brush. And if you have ever seen any of Mrs. Moody's painting you know that she wasn't very skillful with that implement. I hope Mrs. Moody wins the title, because she is just about my age and it gives me the creeps to constantly read where athletes of that age are too old to run, to have any strength or be any good. If athletes, who keep in shape, fall apart at that age, what sort of condition must I be in?

Elbebogen Se Sumbula! where's that dog gone to? Thank goodness, when I was a dog fancier in Georgia, every dog I had was a mutt with such original names as Rex, Rover, Spot, Ben, Jack and Major. If I had had a dog named Ch. Blene Elbebogen Se Sumbula, the mutts would have gotten his name out of my mouth to call him. And when I say scraps of food, I mean scraps, because, that's what we fed 'em.

NEW YORK—Hubbell to start for Giants against Cubs; Guess I'll go to the ball game.

REDLEGS SPLIT WITH PHILLIES IN DOUBLE BILL

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 27.—(UP)—After winning series from the pace-setting New York Giants, the improved Brooklyn Dodgers and the pesky Boston Bees, the Cincinnati Reds today were unable to gain better than an even break in their four game series with the cellar-dwelling Philadelphia Phillies.

The Reds dropped the opener of a twin bill here yesterday by a 10 to 3 count and then came back to grab the nightcap 8 to 5. The even break cost Cincinnati ground in the pennant race and it now trails the Giants by two full games.

"Jumbo Jim" Weaver started in the box for the Reds in the first game, but failed to puzzle the Phillie batters. They nipped him for seven hits and five runs in 2-2-3 innings.

After Weaver was driven from the box Gene Schott came in. The young righthander wasn't much help however as he gave up six hits and five more counters. Claude Passeau was nipped for 14 hits by the Reds, but managed to scatter them. Cincinnati made single runs in the second, third and ninth rounds.

In the second game Paul Derringer went the route to hang up his 10th victory of the season.

OILS TO BATTLE LEAGUE LEADERS

Eshelman Feeds Meet Fast Opponents In Monday Evening Feature

The lead in the softball league is at stake Monday evening when the Circleville Oils, losers in only one game, tangle with the Eshelman Feeds, undefeated in loop competition. The game is scheduled at 6:30 o'clock. Unless much more rain falls the game will be played although the field is somewhat soggy in places.

Reporter is expected to toss the agate for the Oils while Lloyd Leasure will be on the hill for the league leaders. Leasure's single, steal of second and sprint home last week against the Purina Feeds kept his team in first place since his run was the only one scored in the game.

The league race is tightening up with Fenton Cleaners and Circleville Oils close behind the Eshelman outfit. Blue Ribbon Dairy has lost two contests while Cain's Market of South Bloomfield has dropped three. The Bronzeville Jollies are in seventh place with one victory in five starts and the Glitt food market lads are in the cellar with no victories in four tries.

New Song and Dance Act for Louis

ONE of the rare occasions on which Joe Louis, heavyweight champion of the world, smiled, was when he and his wife visited Bill Robinson, tap dancer extraordinary, at the latter's home in Chicago.

Reds To Return Friday After Long Road Trip

CINCINNATI, June 27.—Having rushed through the Eastern half of the National League with the velocity of a whirlwind, the spectacular Cincinnati Reds return Friday to Crosley field for a night game with the always dangerous Chicago Cubs. The Reds and Cubs will also lock bats in a single game Sunday. The slugging Pittsburgh Pirates will be the holiday guests of the Reds in a doubleheader July 4.

LYNWOOD ROWE EDGES DEAN IN MINOR BATTLE

BEAUMONT, Tex., June 27.—(UP)—In a world series baseball game in 1934 between the Detroit Tigers and the St. Louis Cardinals a couple of young pitchers named Lynwood Rowe and Paul Dean hooked up in a great pitcher's battle that was decided when Dean smacked out a hit that brought in the winning run.

Fans said there was a pair of pitchers who would have great careers in the majors. Yesterday Rowe and Dean met again, but it was in the minors where both are trying to recover the old zing and zip that made them two of the best for a few short years.

Rowe, pitching for Beaumont where he was sent by Detroit, got the decision yesterday, although he gave Dallas twice as many hits as Dean, who limited Beaumont to four. In the sixth Rowe slapped out a hit that won the game.

"You always could hit 'em, School Boy," yelled a fan. Most of the fans, however, were thinking of the days when both School Boy and Daffy could burn 'em in there.

APOSTLES NEAR TOP POSITION IN LOOP CHASE

BY UNITED PRESS

St. Paul was less than a game out of first place in the American Association today after winning a game from Kansas City yesterday while the first place Indianapolis team was rained out against Toledo.

The Saints shoved the Blues further into third place by trimming them 14 to 7 in Kansas City. Their second game ended in a 3-3 tie in the third so that the teams could catch trains.

Joe Vance, Fred Gay and Bob Miller failed to stop the Saints who started their scoring in the second inning with nine runs. They got 15 hits.

Southpaw Allan Johnson of the Milwaukee Brewers shut out Minneapolis 5 to 0 in their second game. George Blacholder pitched the Brewers to a 6 to 2 victory in the first.

Columbus held a margin of two games over the last place Louisville Colonels as a result of an 8 to 3 win in Columbus yesterday. The second game was rained out, Charles Kelleher scattered six hits to

HUBBELL JOINS MATTY, OTHERS IN '200' CIRCLE

Giants Star Defeats Cub Team 5 to 1 After Several Efforts

NEW YORK, June 27.—(UP)—Only five pitchers ever won more than 200 games for the New York Giants and today Carl Hubbell, 35-year-old southpaw from Oklahoma, was one of them.

The "meal ticket" of Giant Manager Bill Terry joined Christy Mathewson, Joe McGinnity, Amos Rusie and Rube Marquard on the "200 or more" honor roll when he beat the Chicago Cubs yesterday.

It marked the fourth time that Hubbell had tried to get within the charmed circle which eludes most major league hurlers. Going into the 1938 season with 192 victories to his credit, the great left-hander compiled an enviable record of seven won and two lost by June 8. First trying for his 200th against St. Louis he was batted from the box on the 12th. Pittsburgh drove him to the showers on the 16th, and Cincinnati beat him on the 21st.

10 Runners Stranded

But the "Hub" beat the Cubs 5-1 yesterday by effective pitching in the pinches. He left 10 Chicago batsmen stranded on the basepaths. The Giants got only six hits off the combined offerings of French, Lee and Root, but they bunched them. Feature of the game was the home run by Bob Seeds, purchased from Newark of the International league last week. It was a 475-foot wallop that just touched the tip of Outfielder Reynolds' glove and rolled to the deep centerfield clubhouse steps.

The victory enabled the Giants to increase their National league lead to two games over the Cincinnati Reds who split a doubleheader with Philadelphia. The Reds left 11 men stranded as they dropped the opener 10-3. Klein and Weintraub homered for Philadelphia. In the nightcap, the Reds won 8-5 although outlast 14-13. Craft hit a homer for Cincinnati and Paul Derringer hung up his 10th victory.

Brooklyn and St. Louis played to a 1-1 standoff in five innings before rain washed out their scheduled double-header. The downpour also forced postponement of the Pittsburgh-Boston twin bill.

Yankees Gain Half

In the American league, the New York Yankees picked up half a game on the leading Cleveland Indians whose double-header against the Boston Red Sox was rained out. The Yanks humbled the Detroit Tigers 10-3 behind the six-hit hurling of Monte Pearson. Washington took a twin bill from the St. Louis Browns, scoring 9-1 in the opener and 7-2 in the aftermath. Harry Kelley held the Browns to seven hits in the first, while Wes Ferrell distributed nine in the second.
